Court Rules Against Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court ruled unanimously today that President Nixon must surrender subpoenaed Watergate tapes in a historic decision that could prove crucial in Nixon's efforts to avoid impeachment.

By an 8-0 vote, the court, in an opinion written by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, rejected Nixon's arguments that only a President can judge what White House materials can be used as evidence in criminal proceedings.

The monumental decision affirmed an order issued April 18 by U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica requiring the President to turn over tapes and records of 64 conversations for use in the Watergate cover-up trial of six former Nixon aides and associates.

Sirica is to examine the material to determine which parts are relevant to the trial. They will be made available to Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

Burger, speaking for the court, said public interest requires that presidential confidentiality be afforded the greatest protection consistent with the administration of justice.

Therefore, he said, Sirica has a heavy responsibility to insure that material irrelevant to the criminal prosecution be accorded the high degree of respect due a President and that such material be returned under seal to the White House.

With regard to the President's claim of executive privilege, Burger said when material is subpoenaed for use in a criminal trial the general theory of confidentiality must yield to the specific need for evidence and the fundamental demands of due process of law.

At the Western White House in San Clemente, Calif., Nixon's press secretary, Ronald L. Ziegler, had no immediate comment on what the President's response would be. Presidential counselor Dean Burch said earlier that Nixon is "well aware of the magnitude" of the issue and would address himself forthwith to the court's ruling.

Burch, as have other White House aides, gave no hint how Nixon would react. Nixon said in a separate tape case—one that did not get to the Supreme Court—that he would abide by a "definitive" ruling of the court. But did not specify what he meant by "definitive."

"The allowance of the privilege to withhold evidence that is demonstrably relevant in a criminal trial would cut deeply into the guarantee of due process of law and gravely impair the basic function of the courts," the court's opinion said.

"A President's acknowledged need for confidentiality in the communications of his office is general in nature whereas the constitutional need for production of relevant evidence in a criminal proceeding is specific and central to the fair abjudication of a particular criminal case in the administration of justice."

Burger said from the court's examination of the materials submitted by Jaworski in support of his request for the subpoena, much of which is still secret, it is clear that Sirica acted in accordance with federal rules of criminal procedure.

He said Jaworski has made a sufficient showing to justify a subpoena for surrender of the material before trial.

Justice William H. Rehnquist disqualified himself from the case because of his former service as an assistant to John N. Mitchell, now one of the cover-up defendants, when Mitchell was attorney general.

The defendants in the cover-up case besides Mitchell are former top Nixon aides H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman; Robert C. Mardian, a former assistant attorney general; Gordon Strachan, who was Haldeman's top assistant, and Kenneth W. Parkinson, an attorney for Nixon's re-election committee.

In an interview with the Baltimore Sun today, Jaworski said in advance of the ruling that its greatest impact would be its determination "for once and for all" that the presidency was subject to Supreme Court orders, particularly with respect to interpretation of the Constitution.

"This is what I see as the center of the whole matter," Jaworski said. "The rest is secondary."

Today's opinion was 31 pages long, with extended discussions of legal points including whether Sirica's order was appealable in the first place and whether the dispute presents a controversy properly before a court.

White House lawyer James D. St. Clair had contended that the matter was merely a dispute between different areas of the executive branch of government and therefore not subject to court review.

Burger said the attorney general by regulation has conferred on the special prosecutor "explicit power to contest the invocation of executive privilege in the process of seeking evidence deemed relevant to the performance of these specially delegated duties.

"So long as this regulation is extant it has the force of law."

Recommendation of Impeachment at Issue

Open Debate Tonight

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Judiciary Committee begins the debate tonight which is almost certain to result in a recommendation that President Nixon be impeached by the House, tried by the Senate and removed from office.

At the outset of 30 hours of televised debate, only a handful of the 38 committee members appeared to be still undecided and genuinely troubled over how to vote.

But there was little doubt about the outcome. The 21 Democrats were united. And the Democrats' strategy of seeking to accommodate the Republicans whenever possible could result in a vote by a two-to-one or even a three-to-one margin for recommending the first impeachment of a president in a century.

Nixon's counter-strategy of making the committee's effort appear to be a partisan Democratic exercise suffered a setback Tuesday.

Declaring that Nixon's own words on his tapes were the "body blow" that shaped his view, Republican Rep. Lawrence J. Hogan of Maryland, a conservative, announced his decision that Nixon had "beyond a reasonable doubt committed impeachable offenses."

The three-hour committee session is to start at 7:30 p.m. EDT, with 15 minute speeches by the most senior members.

The real wrangling likely will come later this week in day and night sessions which chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., is determined to conclude by the end of the week.

He hoped to complete work before the Supreme Court hands down a decision that could enormously complicate the House's job.

The court announced it would meet today. That could mean a ruling on whether Nixon legally invoked executive privilege in withholding 64 tapes from the special prosecutor.

If the court rules against Nixon and he complies, there will be intense pressure on Congress to forestall an impeachment vote to see what the tapes show.

The process could take months. A Senate trial would be delayed until the new Congress sits — creating further impatience among a population which wants Watergate put behind it.

Ronald Ziegler, Nixon's press secretary, said "... the American society is not going to accept the removal of their President from office in an impeachment proceeding based on anything other than fact, and the facts are not there."

Andrew Johnson, a Democrat who succeeded the martyred Abraham Lincoln to the presidency and was considered too lenient to the defeated South by radical Republicans, is the only president ever impeached. But the Senate vote was one vote short of the two-thirds majority required and he was not removed from office.

Nixon stands accused of abusing his trust in an effort to remain in office and of obstructing justice to conceal the truth.

Reps. George E. Danielson, D-Calif., and Jack Brooks, D-Tex., said two articles of impeachment were likely to be before the committee — one alleging Nixon abused power and the other that he obstructed justice.

GOP comments on Rep. Hogan's impending impeachment vote; former White House aide Alexander P. Butterfield has told Judiciary Committee H. R. Haldeman "was almost the other president", and related Watergate stories on page 3.

The obstruction article would list the Watergate cover-up, including the payment of hush money to assure the continued silence of one of the Watergate wiretap conspirators, E. Howard Hunt. Nixon also would be accused of encouraging perjury to hide the truth.

The other article, alleging abuse of power, would include using the IRS for political purposes, diverting public funds to enhance Nixon's East and West Coast homes, using the CIA to mislead Watergate investigators, and refusing to turn over evidence subpoenaed by the committee for its investigation.

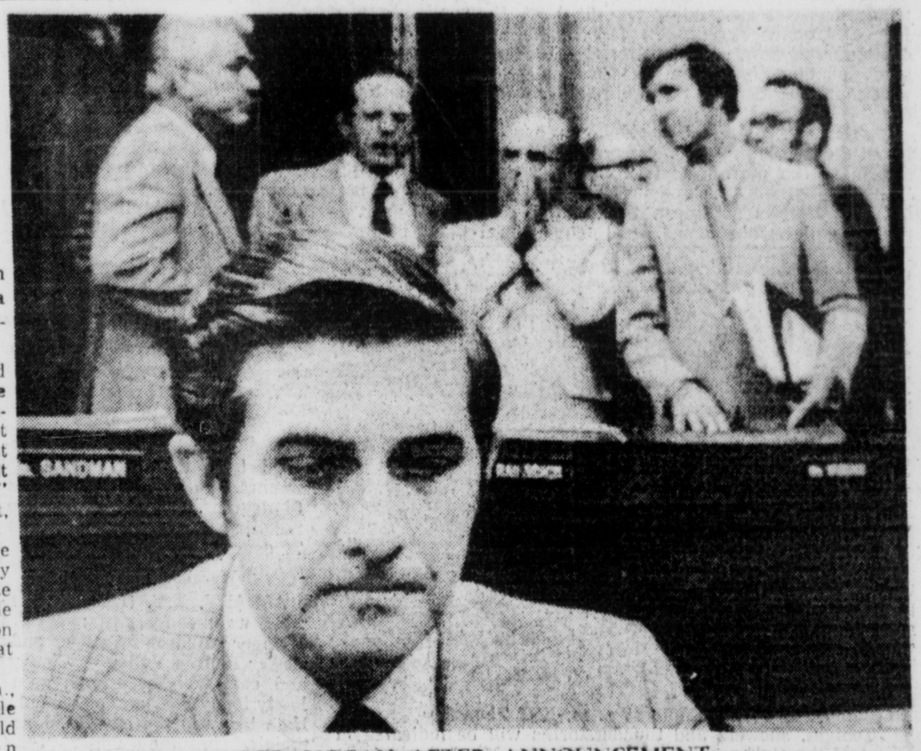

Led by Rep. Charles E. Wiggins, R-Calif., Republicans will argue that a president should not be impeached on inferences or anything less than evidence of his own personal criminal behavior. Wiggins says the committee has no such evidence.

It was unlikely that Hogan's decision would start a stampede among fellow conservatives in Congress. Since each recognizes his vote on impeachment will mark him for the rest of his political career, each member is likely to reach a decision on his own calculations.

Hogan said he received several phone calls from the White House before he announced his decision but did not return them. Vice President Gerald R. Ford telephoned, but only "to question my timing" not challenge his judgment, Hogan said.

Rodino lost a procedural vote in the committee Tuesday. By 21-16, the panel decided to vote on each impeachment article after it is debated — and not on all of the proposed articles at the end of the debate.

Rep. Joshua Eilberg, D-Pa., said Rodino favored a single session of voting on all to shield Republicans and southern Democrats from "torment" and "pressure."

Military Junta Steps Down in Greece

ATHENS (UPI) — Former Premier Constantine Karamanlis returned to Greece in triumph today and took office as head of the nation's first civilian government since a military junta seized power seven years ago.

In scenes reminiscent of Athens at the end of World War II, tens of thousands of Greeks filled the streets in exultation and rejoiced at the end of the strongman military rule.

Enormous throngs joined voices in an emotional chorus of "Democracy! Democracy!" hailing the return of civilian government and welcoming Karamanlis home from 11 years of self-imposed exile in Paris.

"Long live the Greek republic," they cried. "Down with the tyrants."

Overcome by their emotions, celebrators cried openly, embraced strangers and danced in the avenues of Athens. Motorists honked deafening overtures of joy on their auto horns.

Greek Orthodox Archbishop Seraphim administered the premier's oath of office to Karamanlis in a nationwide radio and television broadcast less than an hour after the conservative politician's return home.

Karamanlis pledged to work for "the restoration of normalcy and of democracy." He called on the Greek people for "unity, good sense and patience."

The solemn ceremony climaxed a sequence of events that began with a July 15 coup on Cyprus and the threat of a direct military confrontation with Turkey, one of Greece's partners in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The crisis came to a dramatic climax Tuesday when President Phaedon Gizikis summoned opposition politicians for the first consultations since the "colonels coup" ousted the elected government in 1967.

"The Greek armed forces in view of the situation in which the country finds itself has decided to entrust the running of the country to a civilian government," the military junta announced.

There was no further explanation and the fate of Brig. Gen. Dimitrios Ioannides, the strongman of the military junta, was unknown.

An official spokesman said Karamanlis would begin his fifth term of office by preparing for talks in Geneva with Turkey and Britain on the Cyprus crisis. He will form his cabinet later in the day.

Political observers said the failure of the Greek army to win tactical advantages in Cyprus coupled with the nation's severe economic woes led the military leaders to abandon their attempts to rule the country.

Karamanlis arrived from Paris shortly after 2 a.m. in a Mystere 20 jet provided by French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing. A cheering crowd of thousands surged onto the runway as the plane taxied to a halt.

"We should try to give rebirth to our political life," the silver-haired politician told the crowds. "Greece will see better days. I am touched by the welcome. This particular moment shows the gravity of the situation."

Thousands of Greeks cheered him en route to the old parliament building and a crowd estimated by police at about 5,000 pelted his car with flowers as he arrived.

Karamanlis, 67, lived in Paris since 1963, when he resigned from the government after eight years as premier because of a dispute with the late King Paul I.

Paul died in 1964 and left the throne to his son, Constantine II. The young monarch had the support of the military, but the nation's leadership had turned from the conservative vein to the liberal leadership of Premier George Papandreou.

After a power struggle Constantine succeeded in ousting Papandreou in 1965, touching off a political crisis that lasted for two years and a succession of premiers.

In April, 1967, the military leadership, including a colonel named George Papadopoulos, seized power from the elected government. Constantine escaped to Rome later in the year when he failed in a countercoup against Papadopoulos.

The military abolished the monarchy in 1973 and Papadopoulos became president. Papadopoulos himself was ousted last November in a coup led by President Gizikis.

Fighting Continues Despite Truce

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI) — Scattered gunfire erupted in the capital of Nicosia today, threatening the fragile cease-fire between Greek Cypriot national guardsmen and Turkish troops on Cyprus.

A U.N. spokesman said the shooting "never stopped." He said most of the outbreaks occurred in the Nicosia area, particularly the northern part of the city. He described the violations as scattered shooting of light weapons.

"It is not serious but it is still going on," he said.

The outbreak of fighting came just hours after the U.N. Security Council passed a new resolution calling on both sides to observe the cease-fire imposed Monday.

U.N. forces also vowed to keep their hold on Nicosia airport at all costs, despite the threat of clashes with the Greek-led troops and the invading Turkish forces.

He said the United Nations had requested reinforcements and a contingent of Finnish troops was scheduled to arrive Tuesday night at the British air base at Akrotiri.

A British military spokesman reported a rescue airlift for foreign nationals continuing today. The spokesman said 5,045 persons had been removed from the island by fleets of helicopters and planes.

Attorney Glafkos Clerides, a Greek Cypriot, took over Tuesday as president of Cyprus and immediately arranged talks with leaders of the island's Turkish minority to head off further strife.

Clerides, the speaker of the Cypriot house of representatives, replaced publisher Nikos Sampson. Sampson resigned Tuesday, a little more than a week after coming to power in a Greek-led coup against Archbishop Makarios.

Makarios told a press conference in New York he expected to return to Cyprus to reassume the presidency within the next few weeks. He said he was confident Clerides will resign when the prelate returns.

At Kyrenia, Turkish troops were believed to have seized effective control of the port city. Driving into the city, a UPI correspondent saw Greek troops dismantling rocket batteries and heavy machine guns. They climbed into armored vehicles and trucks to move back.

UPI correspondent Wilborn Hampton, who had ranged up and down the Nicosia-Kyrenia road, said it was in Turkish hands all the way from the coast to the capital.

Meanwhile, in New York, thousands of pro-Greek demonstrators broke windows at Turkey's mission to the United Nations Tuesday night, then marched to U.N. headquarters in a noisy protest of alleged Turkish violations of the Cyprus ceasefire.

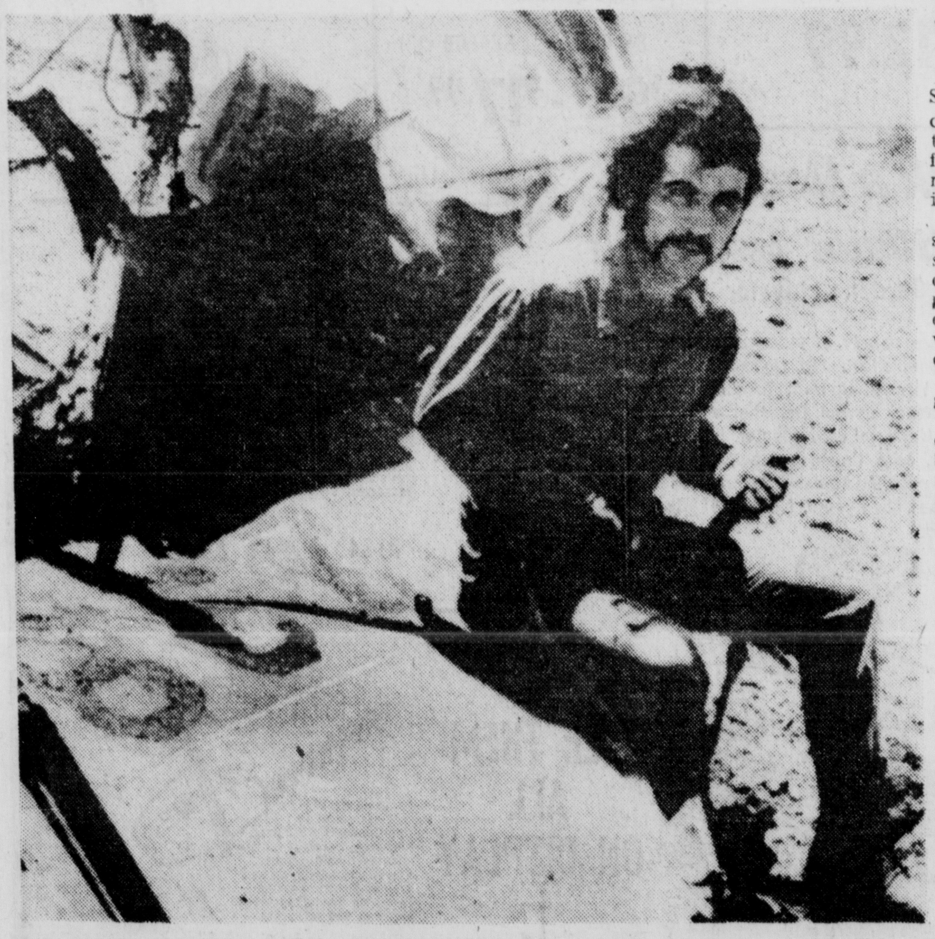

There were no injuries and no one was arrested, police said.

Police said the estimated 3,500 demonstrators threw rocks, eggs and fireworks at the mission, breaking 10 windows, then marched to U.N. headquarters.

Helmeted police set up barricades to hold the crowd back, but hundreds of marchers poured onto First Avenue, briefly blocking traffic.

As demonstrators sang Greek songs and waved blue and white Greek flags, cars sporting Greek flags circled the block blasting their horns until the crowd dispersed peacefully.

James Langas of Astoria, Queens, who claimed to be an organizer of the demonstration, said the rally was to protest alleged Turkish violations of the ceasefire in Cyprus.

No Word Yet in Marlboro

MARLBORO — Relatives are still waiting for word of a vacationing Marlboro family trapped by the Turkish invasion of Cyprus.

Mrs. Diane McDougall of Southington, Conn., oldest daugater of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Sophoclides of Marlboro, said Tuesday night that she has not heard from her parents since last Thursday. Her parents and her 16-year-old sister Alexis flew to Athens June 25 along with Mr. and Mrs. John Savas of Newburgh, then went to Cyprus by ship.

Mrs. McDougall said she received a telephone call Tuesday afternoon from a State Department official in Washington, D.C. The official said there was no word yet about the fate of the two families, but said that several Americans had been evacuated safely to Beirut, Lebanon. A list of survivors will be compiled as soon as possible and relatives in this country will be notified by telephone, he said.

Mrs. Sophoclides called her daughter in Connecticut on Thursday afternoon from Cyprus, telling her that all communications were open, the Nicosia airport was operating, and the island was calm. Mrs. McDougall isn't sure where her mother was when she placed the call, but the two families were believed to have been visiting in the northern part of the island, where Mr. Savas lived before emigrating to the United States.

Associated Press correspondent Holger Jensen reported Saturday that he had talked to the Sophoclides and Savases earlier that day near Kyrenia, a resort town on the northern coast of Cyprus and the scene of the Turkish waterborne invasion. The two families were huddled under mattresses for protection while Turkish jets roared overhead and asked if Jensen and two other correspondents with him could get them out. The two families told him they planned to put "USA" on a sheet, fasten it to the top of their car, and try to get to Nicosia. No word has been reported of them since then.

Sophoclides, a native Cypriot, is the retired former owner of Pat's Texas Hot Weiners in Newburgh. Savas formerly operated John's Tailor Shop in Newburgh. The two families have been close friends for many years.

The Sophoclides' son Chris, who lives in Rochester, also said he had received no word of the fate of his parents and sister.

The two couples had originally planned to remain on Cyprus until Aug. 2, then take a boat for Athens and visit in Greece for 10 days to two weeks before flying home.

CLEARING COMPANY HILL — Company Hill Path, connecting West Strand with Abeel Street in Broadway West, has fallen into a state of disrepair and has been clogged with overgrowth since the city took possession of it in 1935. On July 2 the Common Council, at the request of a property owner on West Strand, Robert C. Johnson, named the footpath "Company Hill Path." Implicit in that legislation was the understanding that the city would repair and maintain the path. Maintenance, the clearing of the path by a county-sponsored agency, the Public Employment Program, started Monday. It remains to be seen whether the city will follow through with repairs on the retaining wall. The path was built by millionaire Samuel D. Coykendall who lived on West Chestnut Street and used the path in his travels from his home to Rondout where his numerous enterprises were located. (Freeman photo by Haines)

Celebration in Austerlitz

AUSTERLITZ, N.Y. (AP) — Eight-year-old Mary Losaw is to return home tonight, ending a three-month nightmare for her family.

The youngster was found Monday in South Dakota and her abductor was arrested.

"We are going to throw one of the biggest bashes the town of Spencertown has ever known," said Lorraine Losaw, Mary's mother, after learning her daughter was safe.

Mrs. Losaw left Albany on Tuesday afternoon to pick up her daughter in Rapid City, S.D. They plan to return to Albany late tonight.

FBI agents found the girl and arrested Charles D. Spencer, 37, in Nisland, S.D. He was arraigned Tuesday in federal court in Rapid City on a warrant charging him with unlawful flight to avoid prosecution. Spencer was picked up on a New York arrest warrant charging him with kidnaping.

New York officials were en route to Rapid City to initiate extradition proceedings. Spencer was being held in the Pennington County Jail, with bond set at $50,000.

Spencer had worked with the girl's father, Junius Losaw, on the E.W. Wippton farm here and was on friendly terms with the family. "He was like a member of the family," said Mrs. Losaw.

But on May 1, Spencer and Mary disappeared from the Columbia County farm.

"She is in very good health and very good spirits," said Mrs. Losaw, following a telephone conversation with her daughter. "They said she seemed to be treated all right and wasn't harmed in any way."

She said Mary did not seem frightened by the experience.

"When I asked her last night (Monday), she said, 'Mommy, you know where I've been.'

"So I don't know if she's written to us and we just didn't get it or not. We have no way of knowing until we see her ourselves."

Mrs. Losaw said the ordeal has made her and her husband more suspicious of people.

"It's been pure hell . . . living a nightmare 24 hours a day," she said. "I wouldn't want my worst enemy to go through it."

Con Ed Suspends Storm King Work

NEW YORK (AP) — Consolidated Edison Co. has announced it was suspending major construction activity on its controversial Storm King power plant pending resolution of a new court challenge to the project.

Charles F. Luce, Con Ed board chairman,, said in a statement the move was taken "with the greatest reluctance" but that it does not mean the project will be abandoned.

Construction of the two million kilowatt pumped storage plant at Cornwall began only four months ago after a decade of litigation from conservation groups which argued that it would destroy valuable fish life.

Luce said he could not estimate how long the suspension would last but added that past experience with delays in litigation, suggested it would not be resumed before next year.

The federal Court of Appeals ordered license hearings on the plant reopened on the ground that the danger of killing fish life in the Hudson River had not been adequately considered.

That order came last May but the company did not immediately halt work because it feared it would risk its Federal Power Commission license for the plant.

But Luce said that a July 1 court ruling held that construction of the project had started within the meaning of the law and the license would not be jeopardized by suspending construction.

The Court of Appeals reopened the hearing after environmentalists presented evidence that the previous finding that the fish would not be harmed was based on the erroneous assumption that the river flowed steadily past the site.

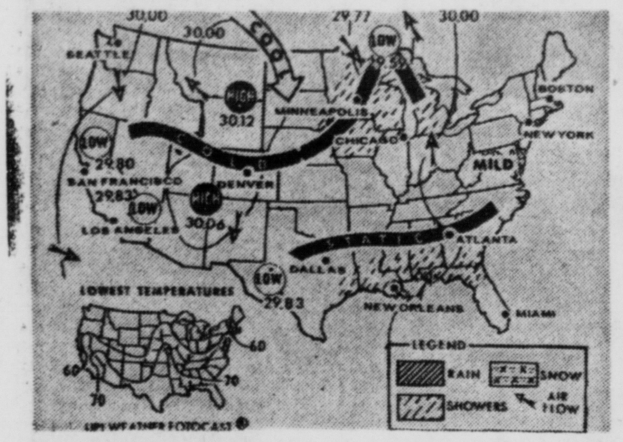

But new evidence showed that the Hudson is actually a tidal basin and the water would surge back and forth four times a day, presenting greater danger that young fish might be sucked into the intake.

The pumped storage plant is designed to work by pumping water from the river up to a reservoir during periods of low electrical useage and then using that water to generate power during peak load periods.

Luce said that before the FPC issued the license in 1970 it ordered a comprehensive $800,000 study that showed fish damage would not be significant.

"We have stated time and again that if our own extensive studies showed the Hudson River fisheries would be adversely affected by the plant we would take the necessary corrective steps, including fish hatcheries," Luce said.

Con Edison has already invested $35 million in the project and Luce said the suspension means "further delays and higher costs for a project that would greatly improve reliability of electric service in the New York metropolitan area."

Pattern Gives Arterial Warning

KINGSTON — Mid-Hudson Pattern for Progress, the seven-county planning organization, has warned the State Department of Transportation that unless it completes the "second half" of the Kingston North-South Arterial it could very well be creating a worse traffic situation than it is attempting to alleviate.

Design work has been completed on the "first half" of the four-lane highway which is programmed to begin just north of Port Ewen, cross the Rondout Creek over a new bridge, come to grade at Murray Street, continue upward to an interchange at what is now the junction of Delaware and Hasbrouck Avenues and then north to a ending about 300 feet north of the present junction of Route 9W (East Chester Street Bypass) and Route 32 (the Flatbush Road).

Pattern for Progress wants to know the status of plans for the road from where the first half now ends to its connection with Route 9W near the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge.

In a "memorandum" to the Region 8 office of the State Department of Transportation, Pattern states "of crucial importance, is the relative scheduling of improvements from the Delaware Avenue to Route 32 section with those for Route 32 to Route 9W section.

"This latter section, we understand, is only in the very tentative planning stages despite indications that a heavy demand already exists for use of this segment which would also be designed to accommodate traffic flows utilizing Route 199 to the north.

"We urge, therefore, that final planning begin immediately on the Route 32 to Route 9W segment so that improvements can be scheduled to proceed as concurrently as possible along the entire length of the arterial."

"If this segment is delayed, traffic can be expected to frequently back up on Route 32 south to the (East) Chester Street signal light, thereby undermining the capability of Route 32," the statement says.

A spokesman for DOT in Poughkeepsie acknowledged receipt of the letter and the legitimacy of the questions it raised but as far as a solution, could only offer, "We haven't done anything with that, truthfully. We have no long or short range plans."

The spokesman later suggested that "most definitely we'll have to do something with that Route 9W-32 intersection. Just how much we don't know."

Pattern for Progress suggests that "through traffic northbound and southbound be routed via Route 199 to 9W north rather than back to the (East) Chester Street-Route 32 intersection.

"In addition, this would permit such traffic to by-pass the usually congested Route 9W in the town of Ulster where we believe further strip roadside development should be discouraged rather than encouraged," the Pattern statement said.

In suggesting that the road as designed "is the most feasible, offering benefits to the downtown (Kingston) area and opportunities to further the city's urban renewal program," Pattern recommends it should be given a "high level of priority."

Pattern also suggests that a bicycle lane be built with the road so that cyclists can avoid the more heavily traveled areas of the city.

The Department of Transportation hopes to go to bid on the Murray-Meadow Street connection of the road — thus by-passing Rondout Gardens — sometime this fall.

'All Quiet on the Wawarsing Front'

By WADE BURKHART

ELLENVILLE — Jere Turkfeld emerged from a two-hour closed-session meeting of Wawarsing Democratic committeemen and elected officials in Ellenville Tuesday night with his Wawarsing Town Democratic chairmanship intact, and the man who had accused him of extortion said his differences with Turkfeld had been ironed out.

Alex J. Nirenberg, Ellenville's village attorney and a candidate for the Sate Senate in the 48th District, had earlier charged that Turkfeld asked him for $1,000 if Nirenberg wanted to keep his village attorney job.

Nirenberg said after Tuesday night's meeting that he had met with Turkfeld earlier in the day "to discuss our viewpoints." Turkfeld has denied that the $1,000 he asked of Nirenberg was tied to the village attorney post; Turkfeld maintains that it was just a request for money to pay off party campaign debts, and that Nirenberg had already asked for and been promised support for the attorney post.

"We felt we should get the whole party together," said Turkfeld, and he said the facts of the matter were "brought out into the open" at the closed meeting.

The committeemen at the meeting also gave Turkfeld a vote of confidence, he reported. The vote supporting Turkfeld was given as 12 for, and seven abstentions. Wawarsing has 24 committeemen, with 19 reportedly present at Tuesday night's meeting.

"As far as I'm concerned," said Nirenberg Tuesday night, "I'm willing to give him the benefit of any doubts whatever."

"The matter is closed," he said.

Turkfeld said he viewed the matter as "closed," too.

Tuesday night's meeting was called for "an evaluation of the rampant rumors that have been going throughout the village," said Turkfeld.

Nearly all of Wawarsing's elected Democratic representatives; on the village, town and county levels, were at the meeting Tuesday night, as was County Democratic Chairman Harold Brown. Brown is a former Wawarsing Democratic chairman. He declined comment after the meeting Tuesday night, referring a reporter to Turkfeld.

Nirenberg had telephoned Ulster County District Attorney Francis J. Vogt about his extortion charge against Turkfeld, and declared he would be sending evidence to Vogt to support the charge. Nirenberg said that now he would not be contacting Vogt further on the matter.

Nirenberg became village attorney following the March elections which swept a Democratic majority into power in Ellenville. He succeeded Albert I. Lonstein. Mayor Robert Dowling tried to retain Lonstein, saying new law made the village attorney's post a mayoral appointment, but the Democratic majority appointed Nirenberg, first in an interim status, and then permanently.

Dowling himself has never voted for Nirenberg's appointment, and the board recently voted to retain an outside attorney to determine the status of the village attorney's post.

GOPers Hear Energy Talk

SAUGERTIES — Don Bruyn, vice chairman of the Ulster County Environmental Management Council, was the featured speaker at the recent monthly meeting of the Town of Saugerties Republican Club.

Bruyn, who is also chairman of the Resources Recovery Committee of the Saugerties Environmental Conservation Commission, showed two films illustrating research on the use of solid waste to create energy sources or an end product. According to researchers, the concept of resource recovery is economically feasible and envionmentally sound, and the technology is available, Bruyn said.

"One of the goals of the Resource Recovery Committee is to learn about various systems available to Ulster County, visit a working plant, and bring back information and pictures to the county," he said.

The meeting, held at the home of County Legislator C. Freeman Lasher, followed a covered dish supper for about 60 members and guests. Tim Murphy, Republican Club president, introduced Wayne Bruyn, recipient of the club's 1974 Scholarship Award, who was a guest at the meeting along with his parents, Don and Eleanor Bruyn.

The next meeting will be held Thursday, Sept. 19, at a time and place to be announced later. Topic for the Evening will be "Volunteers — the Heart of Every Campaign."

Two Enter Plea of Innocence

GOSHEN, N.Y. (UPI) — Two developers from Rockland County pleaded innocent Tuesday to charges of offering an $8,000 bribe to a state lawmaker to use his influence to gain the expansion of a water district.

Julius Jacobs, 46, and Israel Herskowitz, both of Monsey and both arrested last month, were arraigned in Orange County Court. Both were continued free on bail.

They were accused of attempting to bribe Assemblyman Louis Ingrassia, R-Middletown, in an effort to have a water district in the town of Wallkill expanded to reach property they owned.

Authorities have said the amount involved in the case was $8,000.

Boy Dies Of Burns

BOSTON (AP) — Christopher Kiley, 4, son of Boston Deputy Mayor Robert R. Kiley, has died of burns suffered an an automobile accident two weeks ago on a New York City expressway.

Funeral services were scheduled for today.

The child had been flown to the Shriners Burns Institute here after the multiple-car accident that killed his mother, Patricia, and his sister, Jessica, 2.

Mrs. Kiley, the children and their babysitter were returning to Boston on July 11 from a Fire Island, N.Y., vacation when the car in which they were riding was struck from behind and burst into flames on Interstate 95 in the Bronx.

Mrs. Kiley and Jessica were killed instantly. Christopher suffered burns over 90 per cent of his body and underwent two unsuccessful operations at the institute before his death on Tuesday.

The babysitter, Allison Van Wyke, 15, of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., was hospitalized for treatment of burns suffered in the accident.

Product Safety

Manufacturers of household appliances tend to balk at the idea of government "interference" to improve the safety of such products. In general their thesis is that the industry is doing everything it reasonably can to provide more built-in safety features in dishwasters, mixers, electric coffeepots and such.

Whatever the industry is doing along these lines, it is plainly not enough. The toll of serious injuries tells us that more must be done. Experience strongly argues the need for prodding by the government. Happily, Congress has recognized this by establishing the Consumer Products Safety Commission.

The Commission's impact already is significant. It should increase dramatically as new standards begin to take effect.

One of the most interesting aspects of the Commission's work thus far is its two-pronged effort of arouse latent public interest in product safety and to channel consumers' experience and ideas into safety development. With the latter purpose in mind, the Commission is in the process of setting up a consumers' panel which will work with industry and government.

The rationale has been set forth by the Commission's vice chairman, Mrs. Barbara H. Franklin, who is in charge of recruiting panel members. In a letter to women's organizations she wrote: "I think the safety of a product can best be judged by the way it performs in everyday life. In other words, we need more understanding of the human side of products — how people use and misuse them."

That is the foundation on which to build product safety. And instead of fretting about government interference the appliance manufacturers should cooperate fully with the Commission to produce the safest products they can.

Transit by Levitation

The awarding of a Department of Transportation contract for development of a vehicle that would ride a rail on a magnetic field rather than wheels is welcome news. Work on this concept already is well under way in other countries, notably Japan and West Germany. The United States should be among the leaders in applying this principle to mass transportation.

There is great promise in this form of transit. Air pollution would be minimal, the absence of friction would greatly reduce maintenance costs, and passengers would be whisked to their destination at speeds up to 300 miles an hour. Experts estimate that such a system could be in operation in 10 or 20 years.

That may seem like a long time. But the more delay there is in going ahead with development and testing the longer it will be before transit through magnetic levitation becomes a practical reality.

There has been talk about a mass transportation system of this kind for some years. It is good that the government has taken the step of setting a contractor to work on the project.

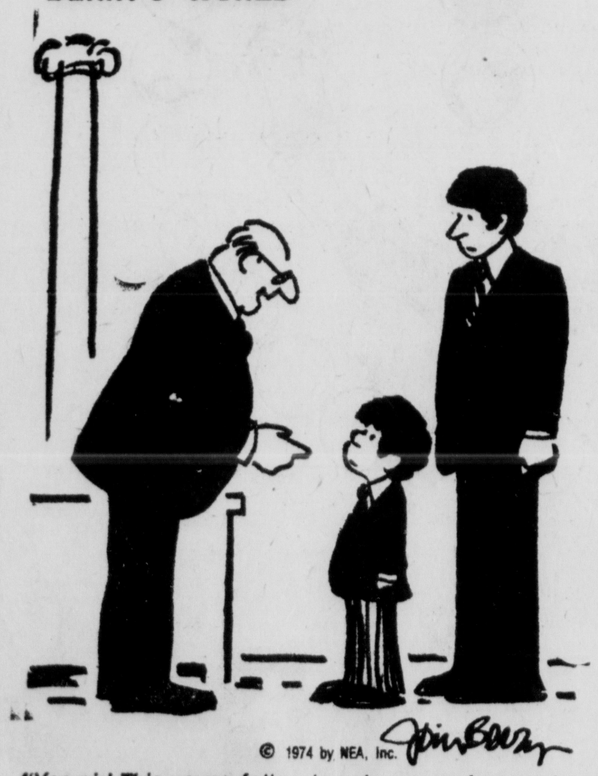

A Yak Neck Twister?

Little has been heard of late about the Loch Ness monster and other popular creatures of myth and fancy. This disappointment has now been relieved by the word from Nepal. We learn that a Nepali woman says a yeti, better known in the West as the Abominable Snowman, knocked her out and slew her yaks.

By twisting their necks, yet, a shivery detail that adds a new dimension to tales of the fearsome yeti. A creature that tramps through the snow and snuffs about the tents of explorers at night is one thing; a yak neck twister is another.

It may all be fiction, of course; there's been plenty of that about the yeti. Still this new abomination at the foot of Mt. Everest adds a filip to life during the summer doldrums.

Big Oil Sets Its Own Rules

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Geological Survey, which is supposed to protect the public from calamitous offshore oil spills, has turned to the oil industry for guidance.

A Geological Survey document, marked "PRIVILEGED INFORMATION," reveals that the government has brought in 23 oil executives to draft the standards for antipollution equipment used in offshore drilling.

This is a little like putting Dracula in charge of the blood bank. The oil tycoons have demonstrated in the past that they are more interested in holding down their cost than in protecting the public from oil spills.

The scramble for more oil, meanwhile, has spurred a drive for new leases to drill for oil off the Gulf and Atlantic coasts. Unless adequate safeguards are taken, repetitions of the disastrous Santa Barbara, Calif., oil spill could blight America's beaches.

A Geological Survey spokesman promised us that the antipollution standards adopted by the industry-dominated committee would be carefully reviewed.

The quiet appointment of 23 oil executives to draft oil spill standards, however, illustrates how the industry influences federal oil policies. Top industry executives and government oil officials shuffle back and forth between corporate boardrooms and government conference rooms with remarkable ease.

Not only does the government depend upon industry manpower but also industry data in oil policymaking. A confidential General Accounting Office investigation has found, for example, that the oil oversight agencies accept industry figures on everything from the number of shut-in wells to the amount of recoverable oil and gas under the ground.

The government doesn't verify the figure, GAO investigators were told, because "policies prohibit verification." These "policies" are imposed by the oil and gas industry, which supplies the government with the data.

Any manipulation of the figures, of course, could significantly alter oil and gas prices. Yet there is no way anyone can double-check.

Footnote: Congressman John Moss, D-Calif., who requested the GAO study, has called for independent government data gathering.

TIMM'S TROUBLES — In 1960, Federal Communications Chairman John Charles Doerfer took a brief yachting vacation at the expense of broadcaster George B. Storer.

Doerfer admitted at House hearing that he and his wife had flown to Miami in a plane owned by the Storer Broadcasting Company and had gone yachting and golfing in the Keys aboard Storer's cabin cruiser Lazy Girl. "This was a social occasion," pleaded Doerfer.

Nevertheless President Eisenhower immediately summoned Doerfer to the White House and demanded his resignation. Within a week, the unhappy Doerfer was no longer Federal Communications Chairman.

Last month, Civil Aeronautics Chairman Robert D. Timm and his wife flew to Bermuda for a golfing vacation at the expense of United Aircraft Corporation.

They traveled in a company jet and were put up at the fashionable, cliffside Castle Harbour Hotel. We went to Bermuda and checked out the hotel, which is surrounded by lush, semitropical gardens. It has an 18-hole championship golf course, two private pink sand beaches, a private yacht club with deep-sea fishing boats and three swimming pools, one of them complete with a man-made waterfall.

Strictly speaking, the Doerfer and Timm junkets were not alike. Doerfer's expenses were paid by a company he was supposed to regulate. Timm doesn't regulate United Aircraft which picked up his bills.

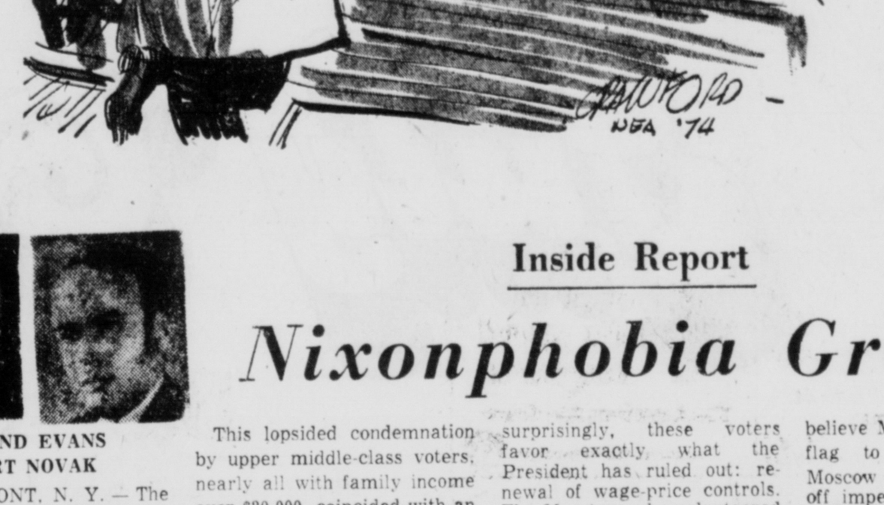

But United Aircraft sells aircraft engines and accessories to the big airlines, which Timm does regulate. And the company arranged for four top airline executives — Pan American's William T. Seawell, Trans World's Charles C. Tillinghast, Braniff's Harding L. Lawrence and Western's Arthur F. Kelly — to join their chief regulator for a cozy weekend in Bermuda.

The airline bigwigs must have been grateful to United Aircraft for putting them together, under such social circumstances, with the man who will judge whether they get valuable new routes. But Timm protested that he had no control over whom his host invited to Bermuda.

He confirmed our finding that the trip arrangements had been made by President Nixon's former chief lobbyist and campaign manager, Clark MacGregor, who is now the chief lobbyist for United Aircraft.

Although Timm technically didn't accept a free vacation in Bermuda from the airlines he regulates, he frequently lunches, dines, golfs and attends theater parties as the guest of airline executives. We spoke to airline vice presidents who admitted they acknowledged that he had been their guest at social events.

Both Timm and his airline hosts emphasized that they never discussed pending cases on these social occasions. Timm also insisted that his rulings have not been affected by his social contacts. He contended that he couldn't oversee the airline industry from a glass bubble and that he learned about the industry through close association with its people.

Inside Report

Nixonphobia Grows

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

LARCHMONT, N. Y. — The fact that the well-heeled suburbanite is every bit as terrified as blue-collar workers of an inflationary present and future is strongly reinforcing his firm verdict on impeachment: President Nixon must go and go now.

Only that conclusion can be drawn from interviews we conducted in Mamaroneck District 8 of plush Westchester County, with the help of Patrick Caddell's polling organization. Preponderantly Republican but with independent characteristics which make it a weathervane, this district gave Mr. Nixon 57.3 per cent of the vote in 1972. Today, however, it has made up its mind about impeachment — and cannot understand why Congress does not do the same.

Accompanied by Dotty Lynch, senior analyst for the Caddell organization, we interviewed 54 registered voters. By an astounding 6 to 1 margin, they agreed the President should be thrown out of office. Only one opposed a Senate trial for the President, and only two believe Mr. Nixon's avowals of innocence in the Watergate cover-up.

This lopsided condemnation by upper middle-class voters, nearly all with family income over $20,000, coincided with an unexpected mood of panic about the economy, usually associated with working class voters. Nearly half of our voters complained their standard of living has declined over the past year. As for next year, only 7 voters expected improvement and 19 predicted still worse times.

"I just can't support my family at the same level anymore," the attractive wife of an advertising executive, dressed for tennis, told us at the door of her mansion. A wholesale food products executive declared that "inflation is the one thing that changes my life directly." Both were 1972 Nixon voters; both now favor impeachment.

Indeed, there was no sign of the effect, so desired by the White House, of economic woes building support for the President. Although many voters voiced impatience with the slow pace of the impeachment proceedings, only 9 agreed that Watergate problems should be shelved to let Mr. Nixon get on with solving problems of the economy.

Indeed, confidence in Mr. Nixon's economic savvy was wholly lacking. Overwhelmingly and most surprisingly, these voters favor exactly what the President has ruled out: renewal of wage-price controls. The 26 voters who volunteered inflation as the nation's most important problem chose the Democrats as the party best equipped to handle it by a 5 to 1 margin.

This disaffection in a Republican stronghold is typified by the elegant 40ish wife of a television executive who, asked to name the three toughest problems today, replied, "Nixon, and Nixon." (She voted for him in 1972.) "I wish Congress would hurry and do something," she added. That "something" is Mr. Nixon's removal. Another erstwhile Nixon supporter, an advertising man, told us the President ought to be "thrown in jail" if he defies a Supreme Court order to give up tape recordings.

There were a few dissenters. "I feel everyone is sick to death of impeachment," the wife of a computer consultant told us. "Get over with it. It's costing us so much money."

But such sentiments were rare. The White House anti-impeachment campaign has conspicuously failed to take hold in District 8, by a 9 to 1 margin, our voters feel newspapers and television have been fair to the President. By 6 to 1, they believe Mr. Nixon carried the flag to the Mideast and Moscow to take the spotlight off impeachment. By 6 to 1, they blame the President — not Congress — for the delay in the impeachment proceedings. Only three voters agreed with the statement that the House Judiciary Committee is out to get the President.

This overwhelming Nixonphobia has not yet transferred itself into anti-Republican sentiment. Only a few Republicans indicated that their hostility to the President would lead them to vote Democratic for Congress. These voters favored Republican Gov. Malcolm Wilson over either of his potential Democratic foes. Two-thirds of those interviewed had a favorable opinion of Vice President Ford (compared with four-fifths unfavorable toward President Nixon).

This reflects the tendency of these well-paid, well-educated commuters to isolate the President. Frightened about the economy, the nation, and the future, their loyalties seem open to competition in the days ahead. But for the present, they have put Richard M. Nixon behind them, delivering a negative verdict which is probably unchangeable.

Some of Us Know How to Dress

Okay, children. Lets have a little more respect in this corner. Daddy has just been named one of the 10 best-dressed fathers by the Lincoln Road Association. This is an overdue honor when you consider that I spend most of my day in a wrinkled bathrobe and a pair of 1940 Indian moccasins.

A joke? I wish it were. A few friends who admire the gray-striped lapels are told by my snitchy wife that these are old oatmeal stains. At least the lines run straight.

In the evening, I wash and dress to the eights. I enjoy looking well. When the complexion is the color of a well-done turkey, the snowy hair in deep waves, the baby-blues sparkling like still lakes in moonlight — what the hell, you're born with it. Right?

Down through the years, I have hoped, prayed, that the Lincoln Road Association would peek into my closet and count the scintillating sartorial splendors drooping dejectedly on wooden hangers. But no—.

Then the cowards came through. They got even. Jackie Gleason is on the same list. Mr. G. isn't a person; he's an event. He has two dozen blue suits. Take the suit off and what have you got — a gasoline truck and a red carnation. Once, when he lived in a Fifth Avenue penthuse, I saw him in a yellow silk robe.

In the breeze on the terrace he looked like an army weather balloon. You might as well put Toots Shor on the list. Jimmy Cannon once said that watching Shor run upstairs was like seeing two little kids fight under a blanket.

My wife dresses me. Well, she doesn't dress me; she buys the suits, sports shirts, crazy jackets, doubleknit slacks — and I put them on myself.

Mike Doublas made the list too. He's a holy word around this house. Nobody puts the rap on him, even in fun. But, well dressed? Heck, he just bought a pair of alligator shoes and a jacket with leather patches on the elbows.

Mike's idea of a smashing time is to crack open a box of peanut brittle and spread it around. When he discovered Howard Johnson's, there was no stopping him. Two hot dogs and a side order of French fries and he goes off his nut.

Would you believe I have a $450 canary yellow cashmere jacket? Neither would I. There are two dozen jackets, but I am not permitted to wear that one. The oatmeal doesn't match.

Besides, I suspect my family is saving that garment for a most solemn occasion — like my funeral. They want me to depart looking gay. I suggested a golf cap and crossed five irons, but they think I'm sarcastic.

In all my life, I recall but one disaster as a well-dressed daddy. I was a guest on a couch show in Los Angeles. My host, who wore a white plantation suit with lateral accordion pleats, sat beside me asking questions about books.

Books and restrained dignity go together. After two minutes, the stub of a cigarette began to toast my index and middle fingers. There was no ashtray on the set. When the burn became unbearable, I leaned nonchalantly away from the TV man, and jammed the butt between two cushions of the sofa.

The man talked as though he had a gun to his head. My left leg was crossed over my right knee, the foot flopping up and down in air. I was stunned with disbelief. The thread which held the seam of the left trouser leg was coming apart.

As my foot waggled, I saw the bottom of the leg open up. It spread upward. I put the leg on the floor. The foot dropped too hard. The black thread spun loose. Stupidly, I recrossed the leg. The trouser fell apart up to the knee. A hairy bare leg was now in view of all Los Angeles.

I looked to my left. Blue smoke was curling up like an Indian signal. I jammed my hand over it. The interviewer wondered aloud why I could not respond to the simplest questions about books. The couch was on fire.

My wife led me, pants leg flopping, from the scene. A television producer wrote that he had seen lots of "gimmicks" to attract attention, but that I was the most brazen.

Best dressed? Best half-dressed? Amateur pyromaniac? My father said it all when I was 20: "If I had a sallow complexion like yours, I'd wear a garnet tie all the time." He knew how to give a kid a lift.

Hatchet Job

Editor, The Freeman:

Having been around for quite a while and a truck driver for Forst Packaging Company and Siller Beef Company, for whom I am still employed, I would like to say that I have known Sheriff Martin since he was a state trooper, stationed in Marlboro in the 1940s. I also knew Mike Lisman when he was a trooper stationed in Highland, Ray Dunn in Phoenicia, Sgt. Bill Frank when he was stationed in Leeds, a number of others and also a number of former and present city policemen. I also knew Tom Mayone when he also was a deputy sheriff.

I wonder if the people of this city and county know that we now have two jails in one and that the Sheriff's Department is 28 men short. Whose fault is this? This is not the fault of Sheriff Martin, but Mr. Savago and the Republican-controlled legislature.

I happen to be an enrolled Republican, but as I wrote Mr. George Bush, general chairman and Vice President Ford, through Senator Brock, that to be a loyal Republican I do not feel that I have to make any contributions to their committees, because I am a staunch supporter of the President whom I helped to elect. Anyone who is anti-Nixon will not get my vote.

The political hatchet job that is being pulled on Sheriff Martin is outrageous. I have written a letter to District Attorney Frank J. Vogt and got an answer. He thanked me for my loyalty. I also wrote a letter to Mr. Savago, but did not get an answer. I wonder why? I told him to put the blame where it belongs, not on Sheriff Martin.

Most members of this so-called Watch Dog Committee are former deputies who were fired by Sheriff Martin for imcomplience in their performance in duty. Therefore, why shouldn't they be out to get him as most people are out to get the President.

To attend funerals, parades, etc. is a dedication that all members of any police department have and as far as I am concerned, Sheriff Martin is, and always has been, a dedicated state trooper along with the rest.

This is not the only city or county in the country that jails, institutions, etc. are having trouble. It seems to me that there are politicians who do not read the papers very well or do not know how to read or just don't want to be bothered. They are just interest in getting Sheriff Martin out of office. If this isn't a political vendetta, then I don't know what is. Can anyone tell me when the Republican party has come up with a confident and respectful candidate since Connie Heiselman? If so, let me know. It has been a long time.

I happen to be a neighbor of Sheriff Martin's brother, Jim. I like to talk politics with him and as far as politics are concerned, I am nobody's fool either.

If Sheriff Martin runs on the Democrat ticket, he will get mine and my wife's vote. What the Republican party has done to this fine dedicated policeman is what they are trying to do to President Nixon.

I am sure the people of this city and county will not stand for the political hatchet job that is being pulled on this one individual. The problems of the jail are not his, but Mr. Savago's and the county legislature's to give him the help he needs and pay the men a decent wage. I am sure that such problems at the jail will be solved. They cannot be done by anoyone man and I don't care who he may be. If you don't have the help, you just can't get the job done. Thank you.

Sincerely,
JAMES J. BEAVER

Reassessment

Editor, The Freeman:

The following letter has been sent to Supervisor Carmine Sabino of the Town of Ulster:

Dear Mr. Sabino:

The increase in the town's equalization rate is a delightful surprise to Town of Ulster residents, and we congratulate the assessor for his work in increasing those trailer-park assessments by 35 per cent.

We point out, however, that the increase was "requested" by the New York State Board of Equalization and Assessment, which apparently found that the properties in question had not been paying their fair share.

An equalization rate is set in direct ratio to a town's assessment habits. A favorably low assessment for owners of trailer parks and large, undeveloped land parcels in a town puts an unfair burden on all the other taxpayers in the town.

Reassessment of those trailer parks is an important step toward equitable assessments, but a minor one. A major one would be the immediate reassessment of those large parcels in the Town of Ulster — without waiting for a state mandate.

No Economic Talent

Editor, The Freeman:

When I presented my position paper on inflation on April 26, 1974, and what I thought could be done to arrest this crippler of American freedom, I predicted that with the lifting of wage-price controls, it was inevitable that a wage-price spiral compounded by costly strikes would occur.

As of July 17, 1974, there have been 600 strikes nationwide, idling a million workers — an event that has not occurred since the end of World War II.

Understandably, workers are trying to have their purchasing power run nearly equal with the rise in prices. Trying to have wages run at an equal pace with rising prices only increases prices.

With each incremental raise in wages, companies have to raise prices proportionately to pay for wage increases.

The President's "old time religion" approach was fine for the conditions prevalent in the 19th century. Congress, those reluctant heroes, have failed badly in providing the necessary leadership. The President and Congress, with their long standing difficulties in concentrating on more than one issue at a time, have been hypnotized by the Watergate affair and the House Judiciary Committee proceedings. Given the lack of economic talent in the White House to develop a sound approach to combating inflation we are left with Congress as our only hope. So I say that there must be a public outcry now from Americans for Congress to act with utmost dispatch to establish wage-price guidelines, to fine those corporations who abuse these guidelines and to ask for the cooperation of labor and management to work towards solving inflation.

Contrary to what the experience was of the Nixon Four Phase approach, wage-price guidelines can work when (1) labor and management support it and (2) when there are officials in the Executive branch of the government enforcing the guidelines because they believe controls can work. Nixon staffed the Cost of Living Council and the Price Board with a majority of individuals who were unsympathetic to controls. Thus, the wage-price controls program was doomed before it even got started.

Open Letter

Congressman H. Fish Jr.
Washington, D.C.

Dear Congressman:

Why don't you be honest with the people of your district and tell us how you are going to vote on the impeachment of President Nixon.

I believe you know now how you are going to vote and I believe you made up your mind a long time ago how you are going to vote.

I believe I know how you are going to vote.

We all know how your father feels about this impeachment issue and what a great man he thinks Nixon is and that this whole thing is just one big witch hunt. I believe your father has so much influence on you that you do not dare to vote against his wishes.

Well, believe me, I have been a Republican all my life and I voted for you and Nixon and if you don't vote to get that man and his crooked cohorts out of the White House you will never get another vote of mine.

Sincerely,
CHARLES BAKER

Zoning Change

Editor, The Freeman:

I would like to express my thanks to the town board of the Town of Rochester for giving me the same consideration on a zoning usage change as they gave Turner's Bus Company.

It took me one year and two months to find out that I could not put a Go-Kart, Motorcycle Track on my property, which is located next to a motorcycle garage, (Sales & Service). The area in which I live is populated with mini and trail bikes owned by the children of the area. The track was to be used primarily by them and an occasional race to pay for expenses.

It took Mr. Turner only three months to have a zoning change disapproved and a town wide usage change approved.

Is the tax dollars from his school bus business better than mine? Why is it that he received such preferential treatment in the handling of his case before the town board, by getting his answer in less than 1-4 the time it took me to get an answer in basically the same type of case, a zoning or usage change?

How come before the usuage change was approved, ground work was already being done on the property and is still being done before the zoning board of appeals has approved the special use permit?

My track would have been in a location where it would not have been unsightly and would have been isolated enough so that it would not have disturbed anyone.

The track would have been available to organizations for Fund Raising Campaigns which was stated in a letter to the town board. Is Mr. Turner going to allow his property or buses to be used at no charge for Fund Raising in the community?

I do not think that the past or present town board of the Town of Rochester has been fair and just to the residents that come before the board to appeal to them for a zoning change. This is only one case of many where injustice has been done.

Sincerely yours,
GILBERT AVERY

Consumer Group Is Circulating Petition

KINGSTON — A petition to seek an end to "unethical practices of chain super-markets" is being circulated today in Ulster County by Concerned Consumers.

The petition notes two major "unethical practices" — the raising of prices when vacationers enter an area thereby burdening permanent residents with "superhigh" prices for food and other necessities, and the practice of re-marking products already on the shelves with new, higher prices. The group contends that "re-marking prices is unethical because the originally marked price was based on the actual cost of the goods to the chain and a subsequent increase is profiteering."

Copies of the petition will be forwarded, not only to Gov. Malcolm Wilson, but also to other government officials in Washington and Albany. Additional copies may be obtained from Concerned Consumers, Box 407A, Kerhonkson, N. Y., 12446.

Concerned Consumers also sent a telegram to Sen. James L. Buckley criticizing his vote to table a bill that would create a national Consumer Protection Agency. Such an agency would have the right to represent consumers in matters that come before other government agencies. They said that Buckley was asked not to support a filibuster being organized by a minority of senators who seek to keep the bill from being voted on in the Senate.

Concerned Consumers contrasted Buckley's opposition to the bill with his vote last week for a $2 billion subsidy for cattle feedlot operators and his previous vote for a quarter billion dollar loan subsidy to Lockheed Corp.

A telegram was also sent to Sen. Jacob Javits praising his support for the bill.

The GI Bill . . . Future Remains Uncertain

By WARREN L. NELSON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The GI Bill of Rights, which provided educational and financial help to two generations of veterans, may be dropped in the future, according to congressional and administration sources.

The officials emphasized that no consideration was being given to cutting benefits for men who have already served in the military, but cited three reasons for ending GI Bill benefits:

—Wartime service is no longer involved.

—The men are now volunteers, not compelled to serve by the draft.

—The pay increases in recent years have brought men and women in the service pay similar to civilians — approximately $400 a month in pay and averaged benefits for a recruit. A past rationale for veterans' benefits was that service pay was so poor the men deserved special help afterwards.

The Pentagon has strongly opposed any cutbacks in benefits since it uses them as a recruiting lure.

Sources said the interest in ending the GI bill came from administration efforts to balance the budget and cut expenses. The VA gets $14 billion a year in four major programs of roughly equal costs: monthly stipends to veterans in school; medical care; pensions for men with service-connected disabilities; and pensions for aged veterans who are indigent.

The GI Bill was created for the World War II vets and then extended to Korean War vets. In 1965 the benefits were granted not only to men serving in the just-beginning Vietnam War but also to peacetime vets who had served between the Korean and Vietnam wars.

House Fire Routs Family of Seven in Lexington

TOWN OF LEXINGTON — A family of seven escaped safety from their Delaware County home late Tuesday night when fire ripped through the large two-story building containing 12 to 14 rooms, according to Phoenicia Fire Chief James Quinnn. One fireman was injured, however.

The house, on Broad Street Hollow Road in the Town of Lexington, was located near the Ulster County border, and is in the Phoenicia fire district.

Quin said Charles Bather and his wife were watching the All-Star game on television while their five children were asleep upstairs when the fire broke out shortly after 10 a.m.

The parents roused their children and made it safely from the house.

"When I got there—I was the first one (fireman) — the whole place was going,' Quinn said, expressing amazement at how fast flames raced through the large home.

Some 65 firemen from the Phoenicia, Mt. Tremper and Shandaken departments battled the inferno for nearly five hours.

The house was totally destroyed, Quinn said, adding that Bather told him the loss would be near $50,000.

Quinn said it is not known how the fire started in a front room on the first floor. The blaze was not suspicious, however, he said.

Volunteer fireman Jay Braman of Shandaken was taken to Benedictine Hospital suffering from smoke inhalation. He was treated in the hospital's emergency room and released.

Meanwhile, Kingston fire fighters were called out shortly after 3 p.m. Tuesday to douse a small fire at a residence at 206 Main Street which stated when a bird's nest under the eaves was ignited by a torch while the owner was attempting to burn paint off the outside of the building.

Firemen quickly doused the fire at the home of Richard McCormick. A small section of cornice was reported damaged by fire, and minor smoke damage was reported in the attic of the home.

Feraca Explains Action by School Board

KINGSTON — Joseph Feraca, president of the Board of Education of the Kingston Consolidated School District, has emphasized that Thursday's special meeting of the board, at which Charles H. Gaffney was appointed school board attorney, was not private, closed or preplanned.

Today, Feraca clarified statements h made at a Friday press conference announcing Gaffney's appointment.

It was originally thought that Thursday's meeting was private, because there was no public notice that a meeting was to be held. The meeting itself gained some degree of notoriety because the board voted earlier in the evening, during a public session, to reduce the number of executive sessions it holds each year.

School board vice-president Ward Todd explained Tuesday that the board may call a special public meeting at any time by waiving the mandated 24-hour advance notice requirement. The board did just that Thursday night.

But Feraca said today that, impressions to the contrary, Thursday's meeting was not preplanned. "After the board failed to appoint an attorney at Thursday's special meeting (Richard Griggs failed to garner the required votes), the members discussed the situation, and I emphasized the urgency of naming an attorney as soon as possible. Mr. Gaffney was our next choice," said Feraca.

The school board president added that the 24-hour advance notice requirement was then waived, a special meeting was convened, and Gaffney was appointed attorney.

"We had several important cases pending in court," Feraca continued, "without the services of an attorney, the school district and the taxpayers could have suffered. We were only trying to protect the interests of the taxpayers."

Both Feraca and Todd, aware that the public feels many important school board decisions are made behind closed doors, have campaigned to reduce the number of the unpopular private meetings.

"I'm afraid that, now, a lot of what we've worked for has been destroyed because of this one confusing and unfortunate incident. But it was an emergency; we had no choice but to call the special meeting and take immediate action."

Ford Company Complies With Pollution Rules

DETROIT (UPI) — The Ford Motor Co. has met the government's new stringent air pollution rules for 1975-model cars and light trucks without the fine-inducing problems that plagued its emission-control program for the past two years.

John B. Naughton, vice president for sales, said in a letter to dealers Tuesday that the Environmental Protection Agency and the California Air Resources Board have approved the emission controls.

Certification was completed 88 days ahead of last year, when some cars couldn't be sold in California until mid-October. The previous year, unauthorized maintenance on some 1973-model test cars cost Ford $7 million in fines to the government.

The standards for 1975 cars are about one third as strong as those enacted by Congress in the Clean Air Act for 1979. A five-year battle resulted in interim standards for 1975 and 1976 that could be extended even one more year — until the 1978 models are introduced.

About 70 per cent of the Ford vehicles that go on sale Sept. 27 will be equipped with the catalytic convertor — a muffler-like device that changes unburned hydrocarbons and carbon onoxide into carbon dioxide and water. All California cars will have the catalytic convertors, which will add about $150 to the price. Because of the convertors, all Ford and General Motors cars and most other U.S. built models will require unleaded gasoline.

The new models must produce less than half the pollutants allowed on current models and almost 90 per cent less hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide as was emitted by cars of the early 1960's before antismog equipment was added.

Oil Earnings Increase

By United Press International

Three oil companies Tuesday released earnings reports for the first half of the year showing increases ranging from 45 per cent to 100 per cent over the same period in 1973.

Shell's report listed its net earnings at $264.4 million for the first half of the year, a 45 per cent increase, and Tenneco reported a 79 per cent increase in net income and a 26 per cent increase in revenues.

The Marathon Oil Company said its earnings for the first six months of 1974 were $80,831,000, up 100 per cent from $40,399,000 for the first half of last year.

Shell President Harry Bridges said his company's higher earnings came mainly from increased prices of domestic crude oil and improvements in prices of some chemicals.

However, he noted, "These earnings results come during a unique period in which extraordinary conditions prevailed in the petroleum industry and in the economy generally, conditions so different as to preclude any meaningful comparison with earnings in previous years."

Bridges said Shell was using its increased earnings to develop oil and natural gas and additional energy sources.

J. C. Donnell II, chairman of Marathon Oil, said while the bulk of the increase was attributable to foreign operations, domestic earnings were also up from a disappointing 1973 period, due to higher prices for crude oil and product processing.

Chairman of the board N. W. Freeman said, "Tenneco's performance during the first half of 1974 further strengthens our already strong financial, produce and market position.

"At the same time, it reconfirms our expectations that 1974 as a whole will be another record year in all phases of our business."

Marine Midland Earnings Up

BUFFALO

Marine Midland Banks, Inc. reports that, for the first half of 1974, income before investment securities transactions was $20,453,000 compared with $19,150,000 in 1973. On a per common share basis, after preferred dividends, this is $1.63 compared with $1.53 in 1973, an increase of 6.5 per cent. The improvement in first half earnings over a year ago resulted primarily from a 16.5 per cent increase in average earning assets which more than offset the continued pressure on margins.

The portion of gains from the translation of foreign equity investments included in earnings for the period was $300,000 compared to $869,000 in the first half of 1973. The company's reserve for possible future translation losses has a balance of $2.8 million from which additional amounts may be recorded in future earnings if certain foreign currencies stabilize.

Foreign exchange profits in the period were $4,017,000 versus $3,149,000 in the first half of 1973.

Net loan charge-offs were $8,504,000 in the first half of 1974 versus $7,715,000 a year ago.

After giving effect to investment securities transactions, first half net income in 1974 was $22,400,000 compared with $19,383,000 in 1973. On a per common share basis, after preferred dividends, this is $1.79 compared with $1.54 in 1973, an increase of 16.2 per cent. Investment securities transactions in the periods produced after-tax gains of $1,947,000 in 1974 and $233,000 in 1973.

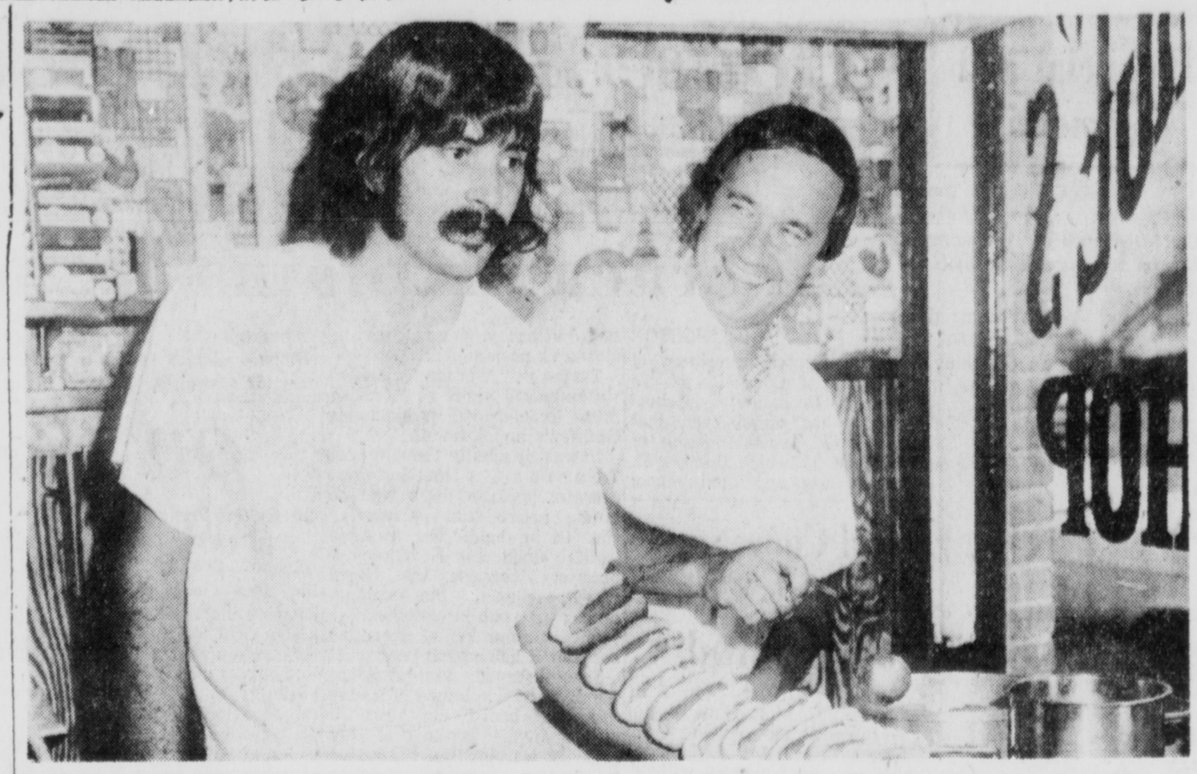

For the second quarter of 1974, income before investment securities transactions was $10,004,000 compared with $9,451,000 in 1973. On a per common share basis, after preferred dividends, this is 80 cents compared with 76 cents in 1973, an increase of 5.3 per cent.

After giving effect to investment securities transactions, second quarter net income in 1974 was $9,987,000 compared with $9,702,000 in 1973. On a per common share basis, after preferred dividends, this is 80 cents comapred with 77 cents in 1973, an increase of 3.9 per cent. Investment securities transactions during the second quarter resulted in an after-tax loss of $17,000 as compared with a gain of $251,000 in 1973.

Average outstanding common shares were 12,482,766 for the periods and preferred dividends declared were $53,000 in each quarter.

Marine Midland Banks, Inc. is among the nation's 12 largest banking systems with worldwide assets of $13,990,973,000 at June 30, 1974, up $1,831,644,000 in the past 12 months.

A Kingston N.Y. branch of Marine Midland Banks is located in the Mammoth Mall, Ulster Avenue Mall.

MAYOR LAUDS HERITAGE — Mayor Francis R. Koenig, in noting the recent centennial observance by Heritage Savings Bank, said the uptown banking institution is helping the area and people to grow and prosper as the bank's deposits are invested largely in the community by building homes, aiding capital expansion and creating jobs. Heritage Savings, formerly Kingston Savings, was organized in 1874. Flanking the mayor are Clifford A. Henze (L) chairman of the board of the bank and Joseph F. Brady, Heritage president. KINGSTON — Heritage Savings Bank will commemorate its 100th anniversary with an open house July 27 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at its Main Office, 273 Wall Street, Kingston.

NYS Savings Banks Publish Fact Book

NEW YORK — New York State savings banks held $53.9 billion in deposits, and $59.5 billion in assets, and were the largest mortgage lenders in the state at the end of 1973, according to a newly published report.

The 1974 Savings Banks Fact Book, a 32-page brochure issued today by the Savings Banks Association of New York State, sets forth in tables and charts the record of the New York State savings banks from 1945 through 1973.

In an introduction, the Fact Book explains the distinctions among the three types of depository financial institutions in New York State — commercial banks, savings banks and savings and loan associations. It emphasizes that savings banks are organized as mutual institutions without stockholders and that, unlike commercial banks and savings and loan associations, savings banks are chartered only by the State Legislature and operate under laws made by that body.

A listing of the 118 savings banks in New York State in the Fact Book reveals that the earliest was founded in 1819 and the latest in 1972. In addition to the founding date, the banks' locations, assets and deposits, and number of branches are also given.

Comparison with savings and loan associations and commercial banks are provided in number of banking offices, time and savings deposits, mortgage holdings and student loans.

The study of deposit rates paid by New York State savings banks in the brochure covers the years 1863-1973 and shows that maximum rates reached a peak 10 per cent during the years immediately after the Civil War. The maximum rate fell as low as 2 per cent in 1936 and remained at that level until it began rising again in 1952.

The section on deposits also shows the rapid growth of time accounts since their inception in 1968 and the behavior of regular accounts and those that pay interest from day-of deposit to day-of-withdrawal. The average size of a savings account in 1973 in a New York State savings bank was $3,762.

The Fact Book also covers the various services offered by New York State savings banks, explains the affiliated agencies serving the industry and lists the mergers and name changes that have occurred since 1920.

A copy may be obtained by writing to the Public Information Department, Savings Banks Association of New York State, 200 Park Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10017.

Ulster County Savings Banks include:

Ellenville Savings Bank and one branch, Heritage Savings Bank, two branches; Inter-County Savings Bank, New Paltz and three branches; Rondout Savings Bank, Sawyer Savings Bank and Ulster Savings Bank, two branches.

CAMP RISING SUN CAST — Campers of "The Music Man" represent (L-R) Yugoslavia, Newburgh, Denmark, Alabama, Delmar, New Hampshire, Mississippi, New York City.

New 'Music Man'

RHINEBECK

Meredith Wilson won't be there, but the cast of the upcoming musical "The Music Man" will be as unlikely as any you are likely to encounter on this globe.

The musical will be presented by Camp Rising Sun, east of Rhinebeck off Route 308, and the participating young songsters will hail from 56 different parts of the world.

Camp Rising Sun has for many years been noted both far and near as a unique adventure for young boys who are selected to represent dozens of nations of the world. They come together and spend the summer at Rising Sun and learn to know what their fellow man is like, a continuing dream of brotherhood under the careful tutelage of an elderly philanthropist who is known to the boys as "Freddie."

Proceeds of this performance, at 8:30 p. m. on Oriole Mills Road, July 26 will benefit the Northern Dutchess Day Care Center in Red Hook and the Northern Dutchess Hospital in Rhinebeck, both considered in need of funds for the continuation and expansion of what Gloria Trezza terms their "vital services to the children and adults of the area." Mrs. Trezza is public relations director for the day care center.

The programs in past years have been unerringly well executed and well rehearsed, masterpieces in that the youngsters are not all masters of the English language.

Red Hook High School music teacher Gerald Marmillo is musical director and piano accompanist for the play. He will be assisted by Craig Knutson of Thief River Falls, Minn.; and Phil Thornton, camp dramatic coach, as co-director. Set design is by Mark Schuyler of Queens.

All 56 boys in the international camp will participate in the production.

To illustrate the diversity of "talent," the lead role of Prof. Harold Hill will be played by Tony DeFranco of Delmar, N. Y.; Marian the librarian by Blake Bell of Jackson, Miss.; the mayor of River City by Michael Borges of Brooklyn; and the child Winthrop by Joe Carese of New Hampshire.

The performance of this musical is open to the public and also provides an opportunity to view the fine international leadership training camp founded 45 years ago by George E. Jonas, who was its director for many years.

Tickets may be purchased at the Northern Dutchess Day Care Center, Red Hook, or at Northern Dutchess Hospital, Rhinbeck.

Officials Claim Booklet Has 'Real Facts' on Food Prices

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department has produced a booklet which officials billed as containing "the real facts" about what's been happening to food prices.

According to the pamphlet, prices are up because the following reasons:

—Consumers are earning more money and "bidding" more for food

—Foreign demand for U.S. farm products has increased

—Poor Americans are getting more food aid

—Food production dropped slightly last year

—Costs charged by middlemen and retailers have increased.

The booklet, titled "The Real Facts About Food," includes a review of recent price trends Butz has given in repeated speeches of the price boom of the past two years.

In 1973, the pamphlet says, the average American spent 17 cents per day more on food than in 1972, the biggest yearly gain in a quarter of a century. But average after-tax take home pay in 1973 was up $1 a day from 1972.

On a percentage basis, the picture was different. Retail food prices rose 11 per cent while after-tax income rose 10.7 per cent, the report said. Officials said that although wages have risen faster than food prices over the past 20 years, wage and food price gains of the past five years have been about equal.

The pamphlet also stressed Butz's often-used statistic showing that only 15.7 per cent of average U.S. income in 1973 was spent for food, compared with 50 per cent or more spent in food in some other countries.

But the new booklet, unlike a similar one printed last year, conceded that families with incomes below $3,000 a year "may spend more than 50 per cent of their after-tax incomes on their food needs."

The pamphlet said prices for raw farm products jumped 41 per cent in 1973. But it said prices for many key farm products dropped sharply earlier this year.

Officials said they would distribute the new booklets free through agricultural groups and Agriculture's Office of Communications.

Nature Field Trip

WILLOW

A field trip is planned for Saturday, July 27, on the observation and discussion of the natural history of the area in Willow. Members and friends of the John Burroughs Natural History Society who would like to attend this field trip will meet at 9 a.m. at the Exxon Gas Station, Route 212, Willow.

The trip will be led by Ruth Craig who is the secretary of the John Burroughs Society. Field guides to trees, flowers and the Flora of Ulster County will prove helpful if brought by those attending this trip. It is suggested that participants bring a lunch as this outing may continue into the afternoon.

Those who love nature and would like to become a member of the John Burroughs Natural History Society contact Katrina Fischer, Glasco Turnpike, Box 288, Woodstock, N. Y. 12498. All members receive a monthly publication giving field trip information and other interesting items of nature.

The next field trip of the John Burroughs Natural History Society will be Aug. 18, a walk along the D & H Canal towpath near High Falls and a tour of the Canal Museum. Details will be announced.

State Finds Area Stores In Violation

ALBANY

Twelve Ulster County area firms dealing in food were among 307 in the state which were found to be in violation of pure food and economic fraud laws in the state during the month of May. Four establishments were found to have unsanitary conditions and nine were charged with misrepresentation.

The four groceries with unsanitary conditions were: Terri's 121 Wall Street, Kingston, unsanitary conditions in the store and manufacture of food.

Aversano's Market, Route 209, Kerhonkson; unsanitary conditions in the store and manufacture of food and operating without a license.

Others include: Paley's IGA, 1348 Lucas Avenue, Hurley; unsanitary conditions in the store and manufacture of food, and Carrols Restaurant, 241 West Bridge Street, Catskill, unsanitary conditions in the manufacture of frozen desserts.

All four cases were settled in June with the payment of $50 fines each.

Four stores were charged with misrepresentation with regard to the grade of eggs. They were:

Shop-Rite, Boices Lane, Town of Ulster; fined $50; Waldbaum's, Route 9W and Neighborhood Lane; fined $50; Giustino Importing Company, 634 Broadway; fined $50; Woodstock Health Food Center, 10 Mill Hill Road, Woodstock; fined $50.

One store was charged with misrepresentation regarding the grade of lettuce it was selling. Grand Union's E-Z Shop at 332 Lucas Avenue, Kingston, paid a $50 fine.

The case against Dairy Queen, Old Kings Highway, Lake Katrine involved the sale of frozen desserts to an unlicensed operator. A $25 fine was paid.

The Bureau of Weights and Measures referred to the attorney general the case of Spiesman's Specialty Bakeries, Inc., 201 Foxhall Avenue, Kingston in which it was charged there was a failure to properly label bread.

The State Department of Agriculture and Markets said it found it necessary to take action against the firms for violations as part of its continuing program of insuring wholesome food for New Yorkers.

Society Speaker Slated

HUNTER

The many residents of Dutch ancestry will find the program of the Mountain Top Historical Society of special interest. The monthly meeting, to be held Thursday, July 25 at 8 p.m. at the Hunter school will have as its guest, Dr. Alice Kenney.

The topic will be "Burgers and Boers in the Hudson Valley." Dr. Kenney is a professor at Cedar Crest College, Allentown, Pa., recently on leave to Oneonta State Historical Association graduate program. She is an established authority on Hudson Valley history and has written numerous special articles.

She will speak of the houses of the Hudson Valley two or three hundred years ago, their furnishings and some of the people who lived in them. She will illustrate her talk with many colored slides.

Dr. Kenney would like those of Dutch extraction to bring to the meeting many artifacts, geneologies or memorabila concerning their forefathers. She thinks of this program as an opportunity to exchange information and knowledge.

The public may attend the meeting. Refreshments will be served.

Ox Pull Championships

WEST SHOKAN

The second annual New York State Ox Pull Championships will be held again this year at West Shokan.

Sponsored by the Town of Olive Democratic Club, the Ox Pull and a Frog Jumping Contest will be held at Davis Park, Route 28A, Saturday, Aug. 3 beginning at 10:30 a.m.

The Ox Pull was the only one held in New York State last year. More than 2,000 people witnessed competition between 12 teams including one pair from the New Paltz College Camp at Ashokan.

This year two pair have been entered from the College Camp, including a Red Devon pair which will be driven by Charles Eckert of Olivebridge. Eighteen teams are expected to enter the Ox Pull event this year from throughout New England and New York.

The Frog Jumping Contest will feature cash prizes for the heaviest frog, the fastest frog, and the frog jumping the longest distance in 30 seconds.

Probation Office Sought for Ellenville

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

"Probation is not leniency but rather treatment," according to Ulster County Probation Director Charles E. Schultz who sees it as "the most successful and most economical way of changing the behavior patterns of an individual who is involved in criminal activity.

The use of probational supervision in local courts outside of the City of Kingston is up 200 per cent over the previous year and Schultz would therefore like to establish an area office in Ellenville in order to have more contact with probationers in Southern Ulster County.

He is also urging that employment be obtained for probationers since the employment rate among them far exceeds that of the normal unemployment rate in Ulster County.

In his annual report to the Ulster County Legislature, Schultz revealed that application for a recently devised federally funded program that will hopefully combat this trend will be applied for.

He said he feels it is unfortunate that probation is perhaps the most poorly funded correctional rehabilitative program.

"With the cost of placement in state institutions for juveniles running more than $19,000 a year, our community can no longer afford to turn its back on the concept of developing a real meaningful treatment program within its own structure," he explained.

Schultz said that many of the programs and services developed in the recent years by this department, have evolved from the talented young probation officers who find themselves in the dilemma of wanting to continue in this field but who are not financially rewarded in comparision to other positions available to them in other state and county correctional services.

"Ulster County can ill afford to ignore the fact that it is more economical to retain qualified and highly skilled personnel in the probationary field of public service than to dump our problems of delinquency and crime in some state operated institution because we have failed to provide modern correctional treatment services," he said.

Schultz explained that while the department basically services the County Court, Family Court and Justice Courts of Ulster County by providing presentence investigations and supervision of those individuals placed on probation or committed by the courts, it also sponsors new programs which have greatly affected and broadened the outlook in the field of rehabilitation.

One of these programs is the Intensive Intake Project which provides immediate and intensive treatment for young people up to the age of 16, in the Kingston area, who find themselves in the "first stages of having personal difficulties."

The outgrowth of this program developed finding jobs for juveniles developing recreational programs, enlisting the services of volunteers and most recently, motivational rewards for those in the program that are doing exceptionally well, he said.

Help and encouragement from many community clubs, businesses and individuals has been forthcoming, Schultz said, praising such groups as Zonta, Rotary and businesses who supplied their products as a way of rewarding good behavior by young people in the project. Also through the cooperation of IBM and area news media including the Freeman, WGHQ, WKNY and Kingston Cablevision, jobs were provided part time by many concerned persons in the community.

Schultz said that the success of the project can only be truly appreciated by those people that came in contact "with the children that 'almost' became juvenile delinquents."

The director plans another similar project in Ellenville.

Power Company To Open Center

GILBOA

A waterwheel set in the shadow of a replica of an old mill will be one of the attractions when a classic barn, restored, refurbished and adapted for public enjoyment, opens here Tuesday.

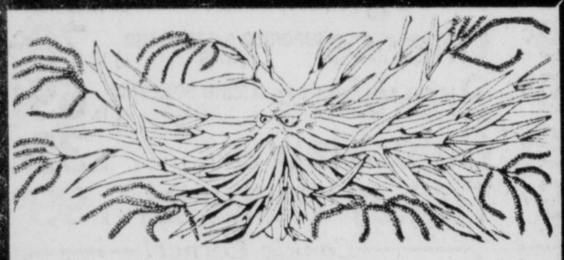

The waterwheel is located inside the new visitors' center of the New York State Power Authority's Blenheim-Gilboa Pumped Storage Power Project. The center is part of the historic Lansing Manor complex on Route 30, south of North Blenheim, in Schoharie County.

Officials of other organizations will join Power Authority Chairman James A. FitzPatrick in ceremonies at the Lansing Manor site where a major restoration program is preserving a complex of buildings steeped in area history.

Rudolph Snyder, president of the Schoharie County Historical Society, and Dr. G. Bruce Dearing, vice chancellor for academic programs of the State University of New York, will be among other dignitaries participating in the ceremonies.

The historical society and the state university are participants with the Power Authority in the major historical scientific-educational center.

Female Truck Driver

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

The "guys down at the DPW" as they say in "the movement" have been liberated although the men seem to be making more of an issue of the matter than the diminutive truck driver who joined them on Friday.

Carole Fulford, 33, of 81 Clinton Avenue reported for work at 7 a.m. Friday morning, marking the first time the Kingston Department of Public Works has ever had a female truck driver.

Reaction is mixed, although one week's work will not tell the tale.

"I don't think they should be hiring women with so many men out of work," said one apparently disgruntled (male) DPW worker.

There is no question about Ms. Fulford's qualifications. She holds a Class I driver's license which allows her to operate trucks up to the size of tractor trailer. She completed a BOCES course on truck driving last year and for a year before that drove a school bus in Orange County.

Ms. Fulford is employed under the County Public Employe Program (PEP) of the Temporary Manpower Council. She's happy she got the job—

"I'm sure if I just came down here and asked for a job driving a truck, they wouldn't give it to me. They just won't hire women for a job like that" — but she resents the name of the county agency that hired her. "I object to the name manpower," she said. "It should be person power."

Ms. Fulford says she took the job, and previous jobs — she worked for six years in swimming pool construction — because "I like to work outside. I don't like being indoors. The only jobs they offer women are clerical and I've had them."

Even if she weren't a woman, her size — she stands just over five feet, two inches tall and weighs 105 pounds — might mitigate against her. But Ms. Fulford insists driving a truck doesn't take a great deal of physical strength, as per the popular image.

"Images don't mean much to me," she says. "That's in other people's heads. Sure, driving a truck might be a little tough at first. But you get so you can handle it."

Ms. Fulford is assigned to a dump truck with the DPW, a truck that falls into the medium size among trucks. She isn't required to load the truck there are two helpers on board for that, although one gets the impression that if she had to, she would.

"It's just a job doing what I like to do," she says. "I like driving. I hope the job is permanent."

Ms. Fulford doesn't like the idea of being looked on as "a pioneer" in the DPW. She wants to be judged solely on merit.

So far, the reports seem favorable. "The group she was with today said she was a good driver," said DPW foreman Charles Kellerman. "She can handle that truck."

Physical Therapist Named for County

KINGSTON

The appointment of Mrs. Candace Watkinson of Kingston to the staff of the Ulster County Health Department's Physical Therapy Division has been announced by Dr. Bartholomew B. Dutto, commissioner of health.

Mrs. Watkinson is the second therapist now on a full-time basis. John Schock is the other.

A graduate with a BS degree in physical therapy with honors from the University of Connecticut in 1971, Mrs. Watkinson had been employed at the Hospital of St. Raphael in New Haven, Conn., where she was in charge of the rehabilitation floor. She had also been employed by the Hartford Easter Seals Rehabilitation Center, where she worked in a home care unit.

Dr. Dutto said that with two physical therapists on the staff, more service will be available to those persons at home who will benefit from a rehabilitation program. The physical therapist works in conjunction with public health nurses, a speech therapist and home health aides to help the handicapped persons reach the maximum independence of which he or she is capable.

Miss Keesler Is Appointed

HIGHLAND

Susan Keesler has been appointed project coordinator for a regional survey on nutrition for the Multi-County Emergency Food and Medical Services Nutrition Program (EFMS).

Miss Keesler, former EFMS director for CACHE in Sullivan County, assumed her duties July 1. In her new position, she will be responsible for colating all the data available on federal and state feeding programs. She will cooperate in the dissemination of this data as part of the community education function of the program.

The Multi-County Project has received a $77,000 grant from the Office of Economic Opportunity for the 12-month program. The project, according to Mrs. Kay Cambone, director, is intended to reduce the incidence of malnutrition in the Mid-Hudson region.

The project will include central, data collection, community education, training and technical assistance resources.

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST
(c) 1974 by The Emily Post Institute Inc.
Distributed by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

Dear Mrs. Post: We had a few friends in for a buffet supper the other evening. One of the women was unescorted. Since she had on car, my husband asked her when she was ready to leave if she would like him to call a taxi for her. She said, "yes". When the taxi arrived, he helped her into it and gave the driver her address. But he did not offer to pay her fare. I am wondering if he should have done so.

Mrs. Maynard

Dear Mrs. Maynard: No, your husband was under no obligation to pay your single friend's fare. He might have asked her, "Are you sure you have enough cash to pay the fare?" But guests at dinner parties are responsible for their own expenses in going and coming, whether married, on a date or single.

Since there were other guests present, you OR your husband could have asked one of them to give her a ride if they were going in somewhat the same direction.

* * *

Dear Mrs. Post: Last week my family and I visited Washington, D.C. After we brought some snacks into our fourth floor room, we noticed the appearance of hundreds of tiny bugs in the room.

I left a note for the maid asking her to please spray the room. Since this was my first stay in a large hotel, I was surprised that the houseman came and sprayed the room. At the time, I was only thinking about the bugs. Since then, I've wondered if I should have tipped the houseman for ridding us of the unexpected guests. I'd appreciate your opionion.

Mrs. M. Doyle

Dear Mrs. Doyle: Although the hotel should have had the room properly sprayed and bug-free BEFORE occupancy, that was not the houseman's fault. Since his service was prompt and efficient, it would have been thoughtful to tip him a dollar for his effort.

* * *

Whom do you tip? When, and how much? You will find the answers to these questions in my booklet, "The Etiquette of Tipping." To get a copy, send fifty cents in coins to cover booklet and mailing expenses to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of this newspaper.

Coddington-Reisner Marriage Reported

Dale Evelyn Coddington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Coddington of Stone Ridge, became the bride of Glenn Evan Reisner of Glasco on Saturday, July 20. The bridegroom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. David B. Reisner of 68 Meadow Drive, Hightstown, N.J.

Judge Robert Jordan of Port Ewen officiated at the ceremony at the Capri '400' Restaurant, Port Ewen.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a gown of ivory polyester voile fashioned with a modified Empire bodice, a high, sheer yoked neckline, and long, sheer Renaissance sleeves. Ivory Schiffli embroidered braid in a floral motif formed the stand-up collar, created a V-detail on the bodice and trimmed the sleeves. Matching braid bordered the hemline of the A-line skirt. The gown featured a matching detachable tubular train styled with a flounce-effect. She carried a half crescent bouquet of white roses, stephanotis, and baby's breath and wore a royal highness headpiece of similar flowers.

MRS. GLENN EVAN REISNER
(Dale Evelyn Coddington)
(Photo Workshop)

Mrs. Linda Atkinson of Hurley was matron of honor in a gown of pale blue polyester voile designed as the matching attendant's style to complement the bridal gown. White Schiffli embroidered braid with a blue floral accent trimmed the neckline and bodice. A scalloped effect of the braid edged the sleeves and encircled the fitted waistline. She wore a wide-brimmed blue picture hat and carried a half crescent bouquet of white roses, cornflowers and baby's breath.

Bridesmaids were Miss Suzanne Coddington, sister of the bride, Astoria, and Miss Donna Reisner, sister of the bridegroom, New Brunswick, N.J. Their pale orchid gowns were identical in styling to the honor attendant's and they carried small colonial bouquets of purple statice and baby's breath.

Michael Freizer of Bayonne, N.J., was best man. Ushering were Irwin Rothblatt, Highland Park, N.J., and Led Lance, Piscataway, N..J

A reception was given at Capri '400' Restaurant, Port Ewen.

The bride was graduated from Rondout Valley High School, class of 1971. Her husband, a 1969 alumnus of the Peddie School, Hightstown, N.J., was graduated from Rutgers College, New Brunswick, N.J., class of 1973, and is employed as manager for Fayva Shoes.

Roseanne F. Lahl Weds R. L. Middaugh

Roseanne Frances Lahl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Lahl of 179 Elmendorf Street, Kingston, became the bride of Roland Lee Middaugh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Middaugh of 40 West Chester Street, Sunday, July 7 at Old Dutch Church in Kingston.

The Rev. Arthur Oudemool officiated at the ceremony. Dale Deschler, organist, accompanied Hermine Swan who sang traditional wedding selections.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose an A-line silhouette gown of nylon sheerganza and re-embroidered lace. The gown was fashioned with a high neckline, Empire waistline and bishop sleeves. Her chapel length mantilla was bordered with lace and she carried a cascade of glamelias, white roses and baby's breath.

Miss Nancy Lindberg of 281 West Chestnut Street, Kingston, was maid of honor in a lilac dotted swiss gown trimmed with daisies. She carried a colonial nosegay of multi-colored daisies and baby's breath.

Attendants were Donna King, 42 Howland Avenue, Kingston; Laurie Perkins, 28 Whitney Drive, Woodstock; Robin Magee, Creek Locks Road, Bloomington. They wore yellow, light green and light blue gowns, respectively. Each attendant made her own gown. They carried colonial nosegays of multi-colored daisies and baby's breath.

Richard Middaugh of 40 West Chester Street, Kingston, was best man for his brother. Ushers were Warren Pelham of Jansen Road, Stone Ridge; Wesley P. Cole, 179 Elmendorf Street, Kingston; and Eugene Matheus, Hurley.

A reception was given at Capri '400' Restaurant, Port Ewen.

The bride is a graduate of Kingston High School and is employed by Shop-Rite in Kingston. Her husband, also an alumnus of KHS, is employed by Sears, Roebuck and Company.

The couple will reside in Kingston.

ARTISTIC LICENSE HAS GONE TO THE DOGS

Dear Heloise:

Many people these days have dogs, one, two, three or more and usually are required to get a yearly license, which means a dog tag besides.

Well, save these tags from year to year and in four to five years your little girl can have an unusual bracelet.

Just get a jeweler to hook the tags together and add a simple clasp.

My father had saved dog tags from the early nineteen hundreds and they made a special piece of jewelry that I treasure more than pearls.

And what a memento to have to wear when your dear doggie has gone to slumberland!

Martha Lostrom

Martha, I'll have to admit that is a new one for me and I think it's great. It would even be a darling idea for a charm bracelet, wouldn't it?

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

The cats have even started

We all try not to sound like "fish wives"!

Here is a partial escape from that:

Get an ordinary whistle and use it to call the children in from play.

My kiddos can hear the whistle two blocks away and come scooting.!

The cats have even started coming at the sound of the whistle. They know something is up!

Rosalie T.

Maybe mother's dander?

Dear Heloise:

Put a small inexpensive scented candle in an inconspicuous place in your car and your car will always smell nice. I put mine in a small container (just big enough to hold the candle) without a top. Naturally DON'T light it. . . .

Dear Heloise:

I remember reading in your column about the gal who doesn't like a pastry brush for barbecuing and uses a piece of gauze.

That is a great idea but I'd like to share mine with you.

I select a couple of springs of long-stemmed parsley — tie them together — and have a marvelous parsley brush and "swab away" with the added fragrance.

Dear Heloise:

We have solved the brown grass spots problem in our back yard.

If you have ever had a child's swimming pool in your yard you know what it does to the grass underneath it.

My dad solved the problem this way:

He took the swimming pool and put it in our empty sand box. (It is the kind with wooden seats on the sides.) Our pool just happened to fit the sand box perfectly and with the pool in the box, we had seats on the side.

When you remove a garment from a hanger in your closet — move that empty hanger to the end of the closet.

Then when you wish to rehang the garment there is no mad scramble to find an empty hanger.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise:

I'm so busy making an indexed file of "Heloise hints," that I'm behind in my housework . . .

Mrs. Stadtmuller

HAVE YOU NOTICED:

How you enjoy a meal more if the pots and pans are washed before the meal . . . especially if your dishwasher is the one the Lord attached to your hand . . .

Ghost Jon

Dear Heloise:

After numerous attempts to find a quick, easy way to clean fresh mushrooms without soaking them, I have always reverted to washing them individually with a paper towel under running water.

Twelve years later I think I have found a better way.

Float them in a large bowl or pan in the sink and let the (moderate) force of the water from the sink's spray attachement do the scrubbing!

They bounce and twirl and magically clean themselves in nothing flat!

Tiny Tips

Decorate with Towels

Towels are strong, sturdy standbys that go through laundry after laundry coming out bright and soft and pretty. In fact, today towels are so pretty they can be used to transform a bathroom into something special.

Pick towel patterns and colors to please and build bathroom decor around them. Of course, towels will still be used for drying. But how about turning them into curtains, toilet seat, hamper and wastebasket covers? Make covers so that they attach with snaps or zippers and they will be easy to remove for washing.

Even a plain wall can be made more attractive by framing a towel. This can even be used as a background for interesting bric-a-brac.

WOODSTOCK GARDEN CLUB MEMBERS

Local Garden Projects Near Completion

The Woodstock Garden Club recently completed a successful bazaar given for the purpose of supporting its Environmental Improvement Program. Planned by the group's Ways and Means Committee, proceeds were earmarked for EIP projects which have received the endorsement of town, community and area at-large.

One of the projects, nearing completion, includes the planitng of a Jonathan Apple Tree at the site of the monument on Route 212. Foundation plantings around the monument includes Hemerocallie Lilly, the garden club's official flower.

The second EIP project for this year is the improvement of a triangle of land at the entrance to Woodstock where Route 375 ends at the Mill Stream bridge. Work on this project is in the planning stages and will include a shade tree, a bench for those who wish to enjoy the scenery and stream, some low-growing evergreens and the Hemerocallis for color.

Mrs. Michael Edwards is the club's chairman of the Triangle Project and Mrs. Lamont W. Marvin is chairman of the club's Jonathan Apple Tree Project.

The success of the recent bazaar was due to the personal efforts and expertise of two co-chairmen, Mrs. John E. Koerner and Mrs. Connie Weiss. Their guidance combined with the cooperation of all club members, families and friends, the support of town merchants in Woodstock, Kingston, Stony Hollow and Saugerties and, in particular, the donation of a floral oil painting by artist Mrs. Katherin Walsh Burgevin, produced a beneficial fund raising program.

Among those club members also assisting with the bazaar were Mrs. M. Leslie Denning, club president, Mrs. Walter E. Roevekamp, Mrs. Edna Vickers, Mrs. Arthur Jones, Mrs. Lloyd Luders, Mrs. George Behrens, Mrs. Clyde Deavers, M. Leslie Denning, Mrs. Decker Bradshaw, Gwen Summers, Mrs. Henry S. Rade and Mrs. Otto E. Marquardt.

Third Annual Summer Opera Production

Baritone Del Neroni of Stone Ridge will sing the role of Alfio in the forthcoming Mid-Hudson Opera Theatre production of Mascagni's Cavelleria Rusticana on Sunday, July 28, 1974, at 8:00 p.m. at the Vanderbilt Mansion in Hyde Park, N.Y.

Mr. Neroni sang the title role in the company's spring production of Verdi's Rigoletto. He has previously appeared as soloist with several local groups, including The National Shakespeare Company Workshop, The Mendelsshon Club and the the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Society.

The cast will also include Catherine Booth as Santuzza, Virginia Herring as Mama Lucia, Mary Maresca as Lola, and Paul Ventura as Turridu.

The complete performance of Cavelleria Rusticana will comprise the second part of the Mid-Hudson Opera Theatre's third annual summer gala at the Vanderbilt Mansion. Part one will consist of selections from various operas, including The Marriage of Figaro, La Boheme and Fledermaus, to be sung by members of the Mid-hudson Opera Theatre.

Mid-Hudson Opera Theatre was organized about three years ago in Poughkeepsie and recently conducted a membership drive in this area.

The organization gives three productions a year, two of which are full scale operas complete with sets and costumes.

Anyone interested in detailed information abut the Mid-Hudson Opera Theatre should contact Mrs. Del Neroni, RD 1, Box 539, Stone Ridge, N.Y. 12484.

Concert in the Park

Program Change Made

The Kingston Concert Band is scheduled to perform this Thursday night at 7:30 on Kingston's Academy Green instead of the usual Wednesday. Public is invited. The concert is free.

These summer performances are co-sponsored by the City of Kingston and AFM Music Performance Trust Fund, Local 215.

Financial grants for the series are received from the Music Performance Trust Funds, a public service organization created and financed by the Recording Industries under agreements with the American Federation of Musicians.

Since the MPTF was established in 1948, almost $100 million has been expended by the Funds throughout the United States and Canada. Administered by Kenneth Raine, designated as trustee by the U.S. Secretary of Labor, the MPTF pays instrumental musicians for services, at local union scales, in performances open free to the public.

Thursday's concert, under the direction of Lee Herrington, will include a variety of music from marches, overtures, to highlights from "Music Man," "Camelot," and "The Entertainer."

There will be one intermission.

Next week's concert will be given on Wednesday night with Thursday night as a rain date.

Advice for the Daughter-in-Law

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: If a man works hard all day, is he supposed to help his wife with the housework? And even pack his own lunch pail?

The wife works, too, but it's light office work. My new daughter-in-law won't even clean her oven. She says it's a man's job. They've been married only ten months and already their apartment looks like something the cat dragged in. You can't find a clean spot to sit on.

I've been married for 32 years and my husband never helped me with the housework.

I think a man should take care of the yard, carry out the garbage and maybe paint a little, but the housework, cooking and kids are the wife's department.

Send me some good advice that I can send to my new daughter-in-law. She needs it.

NO NAME, PLEASE

DEAR NO NAME: Sorry, but I send advice only to those who ask for it. (It's a good policy. I recommend it.)

DEAR ABBY: My husband is 54, and I am a few years older. He used to be such a refined and gentle man, but lately, he'll fly into a rage for no apparent reason, storming around the house and shouting so the whole neighborhood can hear him. He has even broken furniture and thrown it out the back door in a fit of anger!!

He gets into fights with waitresses and salespeople and shouts obscenities at pedestrians and other automobile drivers. Almost every time we walk on the street he gets into a fight with a stranger. His language is foul and, Abby, this man never even used to swear! If I try not talking to him, he gets mad at me for giving him the "silent treatment."

He's been seeing a skin doctor about a rash which seems to be getting progressively worse. What could be wrong with him? Please tell me what to do. I don't know how much more I can take.

END OF ROPE

DEAR END: You husband's trouble is more than skin-deep. Tell his doctor what you have told me. When a man becomes suddenly hostile, profane and violent, a psychiatrist should be consulted.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: I have been a widow for 12 years. I have continued to call myself Mrs. William Smith.

A friend of mine recently told me that this is incorrect; that since there is no longer a William Smith, neither is there a Mrs. William Smith, and I should call myself Mrs. Isabel Smith. Will you kindly set me straight?

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: Your friend needs to be set straight. When you took William's name, you took it for as long as YOU lived (unless you took another husband); not for as long as WILLIAM lived. Socially, you are still Mrs. William Smith. When it comes to signing legal documents, consult your lawyer.

• • •

CONFIDENTIAL TO V.S.: Breeding? I like what Jonathan Swift has to say about it: "Good manners is the art of making those people easy with whom we converse. Whoever makes the fewest people uneasy, is the best bred in the company."

• • •

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 To Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Cal. 90212 for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

(Hear Dear Abby Mon. thru Sat. at 9:07 a.m. WKNY-1490)

'KISS ME KATE' — The name of the show is "Kiss Me, Kate," but when Kate, played by Hilda Carr, gets out of hand, Petruchio (Richard Kennedy) resorts to other measures in this scene from the lavish Ulster County Community College production which opens on Friday. Shown is one of the many elaborate sets designed for the production. The musical will be repeated Saturday and Sunday and then plays Tuesday through Saturday (July 30-Aug. 3) of next week. Curtain is 8:15 p. m. and tickets are three dollars. All seats are reserved and may be obtained at Abrams Music Store in Kingston, Woodstock Meats or at the college, which is also taking telephone reservations. A reception will be held at the Holiday Inn in Kingston after the show for all first-nighters. Black tie is optional.

Good Taste

Be sure your summer cutout fashions reveal your tan and don't expose your bra straps.

Wet Head

A rubber-bristle brush is best used when blow-drying wet hair. Thick rubber bristles won't damage fragile wet hair. For the final stages of drying switch to a round, natural-bristle brush.

Roll tenderized flank steak into mignonettes for barbecue brunch.

Food for Americans

Treat Your Family to Barbecued Beef

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

The food shopper feels she is on some kind of a price yoyo string. Currently, it seems a better buy to serve more beef cuts whereas a few months ago most families were on a chicken diet. Take advantage of the break in beef prices while it lasts and stock up. For a budget-stretching barbecue try a flank steak rolled, jelly-roll style, and secured with skewers. One flank steak, about 1½ to 1¾ pounds, will make four to six individual steaks. Serve with creamy scrambled eggs for a summer brunch and top both with a Ranchero sauce using green chiles, green pepper and green onions.

Brunch Mignonettes, Ranchero

One flank steak, about 1½ to 1¾ pounds
Instant meat tenderizer
Ranchero sauce

Prepare all surfaces of meat, one side at a time, with instant meat tenderizer following directions. Roll steak crosswise (from shortest side), fat side out, jelly-roll fashion. Secure steak with 4 skewers (about every three-fourths inches). Slice between skewers to get 4 individual steak rollups, equal in size (about 1½ inches thick). Barbecue about 2 to 3 inches from hot coals allowing about 8 to 9 minutes per side for rare, 10 to 11 minutes per side for medium. Serve steak with scrambeld eggs, both topped with Ranchero Sauce. Makes 4 servings.

RANCHERO SAUCE: Heat together in small saucepan on barbecue grill, 1 (8-ounce) can tomato sauce, one-half green pepper, chopped, three green onions, chopped and two tablespoons diced green chiles. Simmer five minutes.

NOTE: If desired cut rolled flank steak into 6 individual steaks. Reduce barbecuing time.

Change Snacks to Improve Dental Health

by GAYNOR MADDOX

There is a new image of the dentist. No longer is he approached only in a crisis situation — to make extractions and fill cavities. Today more patients listen to him advise them on what foods they should eat to improve their general and, thus, dental health. Modern nutrition has become one of his healing tools.

"Dental caries — decay of the tooth — is a major threat to young people," according to Dr. A. E. Nizel. "One of the first bits of advice I have for them is to watch their snacks. They are prodigious snackers. But unfortunately most of their snacks are cariogenic — meaning caries producing." He is professor of nutrition and preventive dentistry at Tufts University School of Dental Medicine in Boston and a visiting professor at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

"I suggest," he continued, "they add other snacks that are not caries producting, such as peanuts, pretzels, corn chips — a big favorite with lots of people. And, of course, pizza and hamburgers. That's a pretty lively list for any teen-ager.

"These snacks are all sugar-free . That is why they are so important in dental health. Sugar is one of the major causes of tooth decay. The sugar in candies and soft drinks, cakes and cookies turns to acid when it comes in contact with the bacterial plaque of the surfaces of teeth. This acid formation occurs within seconds and lasts 20 or 30 minutes. The exposure of tooth enamel to demineralizing acids can be measured by the number of times you snack on sugar-sweetened foodstuffs. When I say to a young patient while examining him for dental caries, 'Your tooth was being eaten away by acid for an hour and 20 minutes yesterday,' for example, he will listen and decide to try peanuts and pretzel more and chocolate candy and cake less," he observes.

Asked if natural sugars such as honey and brown sugar are less likely to produce caries than refined sugar, he replies: "No. Honey and brown sugar and maple syrup are just as caries-producing as refined sugar. Also, dried fruits such as raisins, figs, dates and prunes, which have a high concentration of simple sugars, are also very cariogenic."

Recognizing that some sweet snacks are going to be eaten by young patients, he urges that they eat more of the nonsweet type. He adds cheese curls, submarine sandwiches, smoked sausages and popcorn to his original list, most fresh fruits, carrots, celery, tomatoes, crackers and toast.

"I don't think our young friends need starve. They just need to exercise better selection in their snacking."

Also, since sugar meets the bacterial plaque of the teeth and is changed into enamel-destroying acid, Dr. Nizel recommends that his patients wash their teeth with water before indulging in sweet snacks — a bit difficult for most to do.

When asked about use of multivitamin supplements, Dr. Nizel says, "Nutritionists disagree on thier use. But there does seem to be general agrement that teen-agers during 'spurt growth periods' or stress from sibling rivaly and the young college student preoccupied with studies, just might benefit from them."

NEW DAIRY PRODUCT

Natural cream, guaranteed to remain fresh in your refrigerator for three weeks, even after opening, is being introduced by a milk company in your local grocery stores.

Known as "Ultra-pasteurized Cream," this long-lasting product is available in light, half and half, and heavy cream. It is made possible by a special high-temperature, short-time process, that goes one step beyond standard pasteurization, says Louise K. Breitung, Extension Home Economist.

The cream is heated to 166 degres F. held for 15 seconds, rapidly heated above 280 degrees F. held for a few seconds, and cooled immediately to approximately 39 degrees F for storage.

The Ultra-pasteurized Creams taste like, and are, natural creams without any artificial ingedients or preservatives. Their long-lasting quality means you can keep opened cream in the refrigerator and give any dish a special sparkle with good, natural cream at any time.

COLD CREAM OF POTATO SOUP

Slice very finely the white parts of 4 leeks. Slice 1 medium-sized onion and cook the vegetable in 2 tablespoons butter until they just begin to turn golden. Add 5 medium-sized potatoes, peeled and sliced, 1 quart chicken broth or water, or a combination of both, and 1 tablespoon salt. Boil for 35 or 40 minutes. Rub the liquid through a fine sieve, return it to the fire, and add 2 cups milk and 2 cups Ultra-pasteurized Half and Half. Season to taste and bring to a boil. Cool and rub the mixture through a very fine sieve. When it is cold, add 1 cup Ultra-pasteurized Heavy Cream. Chill thoroughly. Sprinkle with finely chopped chives.

An finally, since you can keep Ultra-pasteurized Creams on hand all the time, to use when you're ready, surprise the family with a fresh summertime vegetable made doubly good with a luscious cream sauce.

CREAM SAUCE

Melt 2 tablespoons butter and gradually add 2 tablespoons flour, stirring constantly over a low flame for 3 to 5 minutes. Gradually add 1 cup scalded ultra-pasteurized Light, Half and Half, or Heavy Cream, stirring constantly to blend well. Season to taste and complete the cooking over hot but not boiling water.

What Does National's Latest Win Prove?

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Take it from two guys who have been on both sides of th fence. Winring an All-Star game still proves nothing even though it's now 11 out of the last 12 for the National League.

Frank Robinson of the California Angels and Reggie Smith of the St. Louis Cardinals share virtually the same view on that subject, although it's becoming increasingly more difficult for the public to accept this opinion.

The National League which has dominated the All-Star game for more than a decade, once again showed its superiority Tuesday night by soundly whipping the American League 7-2 for its third win in a row. The National League's overall margin is 26-18-1.

Yet despite the beating, there are very few players who use the contest as a measuring stick to evaluate the talents of the respective leagues.

"It's one game in midsummer. It's three days off. How many World Series have they won in the last five?," asked Robinson, who has now played in 11 All-Star games, six for the NL and five for the AL. "I don't think they (the NL) are superior. You take the top four ball clubs in their league and the top four in our league and there isn't that much difference.

"You can't judge a league on one game with only pride and prestige involved."

Smith, who played for the NL for the first time Tuesday night after having appeared in two previous contests with the AL, felt that overall the NL is stronger, but he agrees that one game is not a sound barometer for each league's merits or demerits.

"Right now I'd say the National League has better ballplayers but the American League is coming," said Smith, who hit his first All-Star homer Tuesday night. "True the American League has won the last two World Series. The Oakland A's are no ordinary team, though. They play National League style ball.

"They have guys who can steal bases and they have power and pitching. With them it's speed, speed, speed. You don't find that on too many American League clubs. Kansas City plays National League type ball and I hear the Red Sox are starting to play that way, too."

The NL demonstrated every little nuance of its versatility Tuesday night, employing speed, power, sharp defense and outstanding pitching to humble the AL.

Three veteran stars—Smith, Lou Brock and Cesar Cedeno—turned in the most eye-catching plays, but a coming new star—Steve Garvey of Los Angeles—walked off with the Most Valuable Player Award.

Garvey, who got out of a sick bed to play in this game, was instrumental in the first two runs scored by the NL and was the only player in his league to play the full nine innings.

The Dodger first baseman singled and scored in the second inning, doubled home the tying run in the fourth and also turned in a sparkling play in the field when he robbed Bobby Murcer of a hit in the third inning.

"I wasn't even sure I would be able to play in this game," said Garvy, who was a write-in selection to the starting team. "I was in bed for three or four days with a neck infection but by Sunday I was feeling better, thanks to antibiotics. For a while, my neck was swollen like a basketball."

While Garvey was certainly deserving of the MVP plaque, any one of several NL players could have received it. Ken Brett, the only Pirate on the team, emerged as the winning pitcher with two innings of shutout ball; Brock set up a key run with some fancy baserunning; and Cedeno turned in a superb running catch of Bert Campaneris' bid for an extra base hit to take the AL out of a potentil big inning.

Joe Morgan of Cincinnati also turned in some dandy plays at second base for the winners while Mike Marshall tossed two innings of shutout relief.

Then, too, there was Chicago's Don Kessinger, who hit a run-scoring triple in the eighth inning and scored the NL's final run on a wild pitch by Oakland's Rollie Fingers.

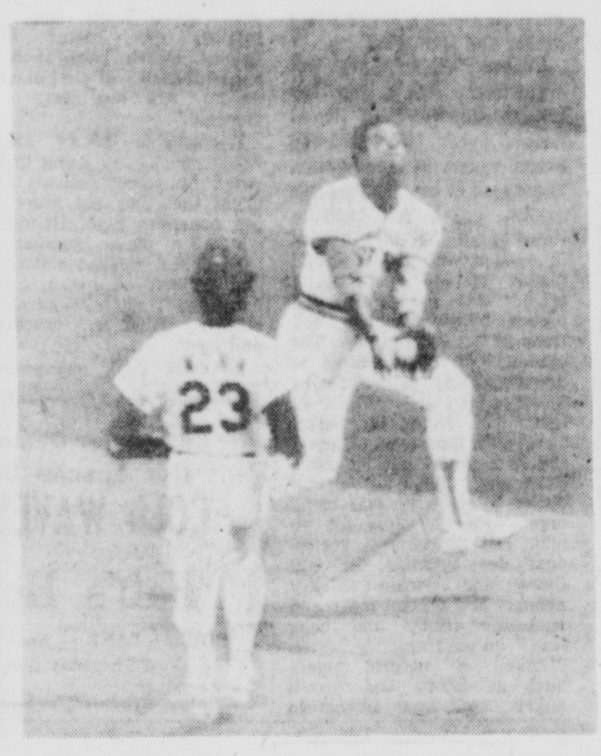

While the AL tried hard on defense, especially Oakland's duo of Joe Rudi and Reggie Jackson, both of whom turned in spectacular catches in the outfield, the AL simply had no punch at the plate. A contingent of five pitchers held the losers to only four hits.

"The zip wasn't there, that's all," said Jackson, summing up the frustration of the AL.

But Manager Dick Williams had a word of warning for the NL.

"We lost this one," said Williams, "but we'll come on like a house afire in October."

Players Change Their Tune

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Yogi Berra, who had little to say about the matter beforehand, observed with his usual wisdom that "we were out to win, too."

Dick Williams, who before had a lot to say about the importance of a victory, muttered, "So what."

Reggie Jackson said the same thing.

Their tune had changed after Berra's National League All-Stars beat Williams' American League All-Stars 7-2 Tuesday night.

The American League, from President Lee MacPhail to Manager Williams, made a big thing before the 45th All-Star Game of winning at all cost. MacPhail went as far as strongly urging that no American League All-Star pitcher work last Sunday to be ready for the Nationals.

The National League was conspicuous by its silence before the game. But Berra's gang spoke loudly during it with their bats, defense and pitching. And when it was over it was the same old story. Three National League wins in a row, 11 of the past 12.

Williams had promised to keep his best players in the game, even if some others didn't play. He had a few problems keeping his word. Two of his brightest offensive stars, first baseman Dick Allen and second baseman Rod Carew, played 2 1-2 innings each.

Williams explained that Allen fouled a ball off his ankle and Carew was "banged up a little" in a third inning slide at second.

"I'm not going to take a chance on injuring someone else's player," Williams said.

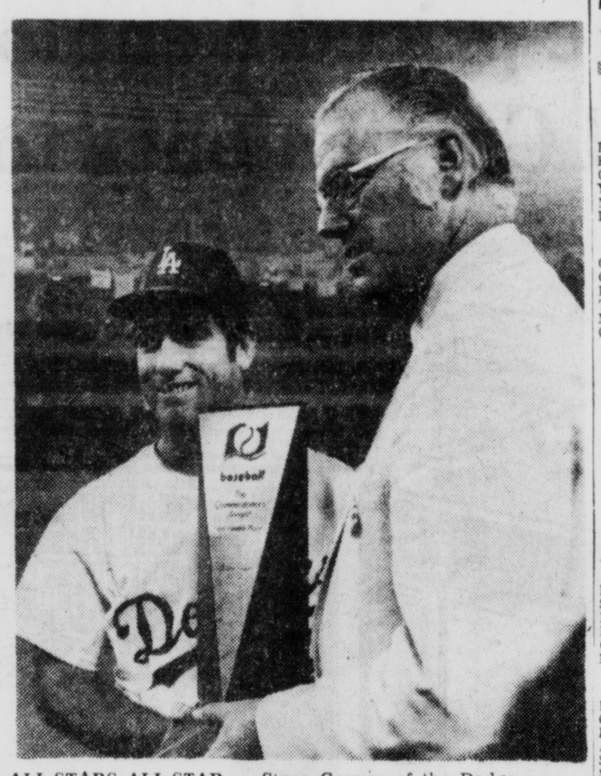

Berra made only two substitutions through the first five innings. "It was still close," said Berra, whose team led 4-2 after five.

"I kept checking on (Steve) Garvey's ear infection," Berra said, referring to the Los Angeles first baseman who was selected the game's Most Valuable Player. "I would like to manage this team," he gloated. "I could be a push button manager."

Reggie Smith, a two-time American League All-Star now with the National League St. Louis Cardinals, said the Nationals were faster and play more aggressive baseball. Smith hit the game's only home run.

Jackson, who polled 3.5 million votes, the highest ever in All-Star balloting, took the defeat lightly.

"We got beat, so what?" said the outfielder, who went 0-for-3 with a pair of strikeouts.

ALL-STARS ALL-STAR — Steve Garvey of the Dodgers accepts All-Star game MVP award from Baseball Commissiner Bowie Kuhn following the National League's 7-2 victory. Garvey, the only National Leaguer to go nine innings, singled, doubled, scored a run, and had one RBI. (UPI)

Braves Name Clyde King...

ATLANTA (UPI) — Clyde King, former San Francisco manager, today was named manager of the Atlanta Braves to succeed the ousted Eddie Mathews.

The move was made by Braves officials although Braves superstar Henry Aaron said Tuesday that he thought he should have been offered the job and that if he had been offered, the job he would have accepted it.

King, who for the past two years served as a special assistant to Braves vice president Eddie Robinson, takes over the team immediately with his first game Thursday night against San Diego when the Braves resume play after the All Star break.

Robinson had indicated on Sunday, when he announced the firing of Mathews, that King and Richmond manager Clint Courtney were the leading candidates for the job.

In his one full season as manager, King's Giants posted a 90-72 mark to finish second to division-winning Atlanta in the National League West.

The following season, the Giants were 19-23 when King was replaced by Charlie Fox in May.

King, a former major league pitcher from Goldsboro, N.C., began his managing career here in Atlanta in 1955 at the helm of this city's team in the AA Southern League.

After eight years as a minor league manager, King was a pitching instructor for the St. Louis Cardinals in 1963-64, then a coach for the Pittsburgh Pirates the next three years.

...Aaron Unhappy He Wasn't Asked

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Home run king Hank Aaron his brother, Tommie, were not considered candidates for the Atlanta Braves' managership and Hank isn't happy about it at all.

Braves' general manager Eddie Robinson named a successor to the fired Eddie Mathews today, and Aaron said Robinson didn't even show the courtesy of asking him or his brother whether they might be interested in the job.

Aaron, who had previously ruled out any managing job, restated his position again before Tuesday night's All-Star baseball game here. But he said he was disturbed by Robinson's announcement to the effect Tommie and Henry Aaron are out" as possibilities for the Braves' job.

"I'm not interested in managing, but I felt he ruled all black players out by that statement. No one had even approached me to see if I'd be interested. I think he (Robinson) should have asked me out of courtesy after he put my name in the papers."

Earlier this week, Robinson was asked about Mathews replacement, and ruled Aaron and his brother out of the running.

Aaron, however, said he might have changed his mind about becoming a major league manager if Robinson had approached him. Aaron added he probably would have accepted "because there has never been a black manager."

In Atlanta, Robinson said he was "surprised" by Aaron's statement.

"This is certainly news to me," said Robinson. "Since Hank is ending his illustrious playing career and had never indicated he wanted to finish as anything but a ballplayer, I'm doubly surprised by his statement.

"Never in our many conversations has Hank expressed any managerial aspirations."

Robinson noted that he named Tommie Aaron as manager of the Class AA Savnnah farm team last year although he had no managerial experience.

"I didn't ask him to start at a lower level in the organization," said Robinson. "Normally, when you think about developing a major league manager, you are talking in terms of several years.

Picket for Black Manager

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A coalition of civil rights groups has warned baseball officials of a possible boycott by black fans if major league baseball can't come up with a black manager.

"Our boys can play baseball on the field, but when it comes to the managing jobs a few white men play musical chairs with the jobs," said Robert L. Pitts, spokesman for a group of pickets, on Tuesday.

"If blacks have all that talent on the field, chances are there is some managing talent there, too."

About 15 pickets from four local civil rights groups spent several hours parading in front of the Hilton Hotel, jammed with baseball notables and news media representatives as headquarters for the All-Star Game.

Rozelle Staying Out of Talks

By United Press International

If the striking National Football League Players Association and owners reprentatives are counting on Commissioner Pete Rozelle to settle their 24-day old strike, they can forget it. He's staying out of the negotiations.

Rozelle made that clear Tuesday after talks had broken off abruptly on Monday.

"I can't do otherwise," Rozelle said. "The leadership of the NFLPA has made this office and myself a major issue in the negotiations. I think that the federal mediator has done a fine job in keeping the two sides talking off and on.

"I've been keeping abreast of developments. I've talked to union representatives, not serious talks, but at least there has been communication, and the Management Council has also been in touch with me."

Rozelle says he is just an interested bystander.

"It is totally untrue to claim that I am 'management's man,'" he said. "The union representatives have never made such a charge. I am not involved with the NFL Management Council, which is representing the owners, nor am I involved with the players' union."

No new talks havee been scheduled.

Rozelle, faced with his league's starting the exhibition season with rookie and free agent laden rosters, held "informal" conversations with the three major television networks regarding the fees they pay for the rights to telecast NFL games.

"The networks are planning to go ahead with their schedules," Rozelle said. "I simply told them that we would review the situation later as to ratings of the games televised and if it seemed to be appropriate to make adjustments in rights' fees, we would discuss it and work something out.

"You cannot project ratings. You can't do that until you know if they (the networks) have suffered any loss. Our conversations have been quite informal up to this time, but we have talked."

Rozelle goes to Canton, Ohio Saturday for the annual Hall of Fame ceremonies and game between Buffalo and St. Louis, which is scheudled for national telecast. Tony Canadeo, Bill George, Dick Lane and Lou Groza are to be inducted.

The Bills and Cardinals will use rookies and free agents and there is a threat of a picket line by the NFLPA.

Would Rozelle cross a picket line?

"I think that's academic at this time," he said. "I will attend the induction ceremonies and I intend to attend the game as well."

Elsewhere in the league, a few veterans began crossing lines and drifting into training camps. The biggest names were from Oakland where star wide receiver Fred Biletnikoff, veteran center Jim Otto and defensive back Jimmy Warren went into camp at Santa Rosa, Calif.

"I want to win a championship and the only way it can be done is to be in shape," said Otto, 35. "And to get into shape I need to be in camp."

"This strike will benefit a lot of guys in the way-off future," added Warren. "My future is now."

Veteran Art Malone, looking to regain his starting job at running back from Eddie Ray, reported to the Atlanta Falcons' camp and Roy Hilton, a 10-year veteran defensive end acquired from Baltimore, showed up at the New York Giants' training facility at Fairfield, Conn.

WORKING OUT — Striking Ram veterans hold voluntary informal workouts at Long Beach, Calif., as they wait for a settlement between the NFL and the Players' Association. Wide receiver Jack Snow (L) heads downfield as quarterback John Hadl goes back to pass. The veterans plan to hold daily sessions to keep in shape. (UPI)

Sawyer BR Eliminated

VESTAL

The Saugerties Babe Ruth team made a bid to stay alive in the New York State Babe Ruth Tournament here Tuesday, but in a donnybrook with the defending champions from Rotterdam punctuated by four home runs, the Sawyers suffered their second loss, 12-9, and were eliminated from contention.

Saugerties dropped into the losers' bracket of the tournament Monday after losing a 4-3 contest to Liverpool. In both games Saugerties had the lead but failed to hold it.

Tim Cole, the fine Sawyer centerfielder who had poled a solo home run in the opener against Liverpool, connected with the bases loaded off Joe Thuotte in the second inning of the second game. That provided Saugerties with a big 8-2 lead, but it was not enough to hold back the Rotterdam club.

Rotterdam fought back with a rally in the fourth, scoring three runs and forcing starter Jay Harris to exit with the bases loaded. Jeff Lavigne tried to quell the uprising, but Rotterdam's Matt Spina matched Cole's earlier feat with a grand slam to give the winners a 9-8 lead.

Steve Schaeffer drilled an RBI single in the fifth to draw the Sawyers even, but again long ball power carried Rotterdam through. In the sixth, Karl Bankowski hit a two-run shot to provide the winning margin and tab Lavigne with the defeat.

Dave Disco belted a two-run homer for Rotterdam in the first to give the winners an early lead, but Saugerties battled back with four in the home half to go ahead. Thuotte survived ten hits to last the distance and pick up the victory.

Cole, who made two spectacular defensive plays in the outfiedl against Rotterdam, hit lefty Jim Mango's pitch into the seats in the second inning Monday to draw Saugerties even with Liverpool at 1-1. In the fifth, Lavigne and Steve Martin Cracked RBI singles to provide Steve Van Tassell with a 3-1 lead.

Bill Hoffay homered and drove in three runs for the losers.

A Southern Rivalry

By United Press International

Unbeaten Central Division powers Birmingham and Memphis, gearing a genuine "Southern rivalry," meet tonight before what is expected to be the largest World Football League crowd to date.

An estimated 60,000 fans are due to fill Birmingham's Legion Field when the hometown Americans risk their 2-0 record against the visiting Southmen, also 2-0 in the WFL central which also features a third unbeaten club, the Chicago Fire. The Fire is on the road against Portland.

Other WFL action features Southern California at Jacksonville and Houston at Florida while in the national TV Game Thursday night, New York is at Philadelphia.

In addition to featuring a pair of unbeaten teams from comparitively close proximities, the Birmingham-Memphis game also will showcase some of the fledgling league's brightest stars.

Ex-NFL cast-offs John Huarte of Memphis and George Mira of Birmingham, seem to have found their niches as quarterbacks in the WFL. Mira, for example, last week rallied his team from a 29-3 halftime deficit to victory over New York with three touchdown passes in the second half and a run for a fourth.

In addition to Mira, the Americans also boast ex-NFL running stars Paul Robinson and Charley Harraway while the Southmen counter with J.J. Jennings, the rookie from Rutgers who is being touted as the most exciting runner in the league.

Further south, the Florida Blazers, the fourth WFL unbeaten contingent, are hoping for a sellout of 20,000 at Orlando's Tangerine Bowl in their game against Houston.

"I can say that we're going to beat the opening night crowd (18,625) if ticket sales in the outlying area are as brisk as they have been here in town," Blazers' ticket manager Charlie Vasseur said Tuesday.

Home runs by Linda Whittaker and Mary O'Connor lifted the Starlings past the Blue Jays, 17-15 in the Esopus Girls Softball League, then the Starlings got a six-hitter from Mary O'Connor and went on to defeat the Golden Eagles, 3-1 for their second straight win.

The Blue Jays grabbed a 10-8 lead on the strong Starling team, but a five-run burst in the fourth spoiled the upset bid. Whittaker and O'Connor each had four hits as did the losers' Colleen Cring.

The Eagles stymied the Starlings after the first inning but couldn't score enough to overcome the winners' early lead. Pam Emerick slammed two hits for the Eagles.

The Blue Jays again jumped ahead of an opponent, this time the Red Sandpipers, but again a late rally did the trick. Cheryl Turck drilled four hits to lead the Sandpipers. Chris Wiitsie doubled for the Jays.

Maureen Donnelly held the Buzzards to three hits, and her Sparrow teammates took advantage of Buzzard miscues to post a 14-2 victory in the final game of Sunday's triple-header. Kathleen Smith and Lisa Dannert had two hits each for the Sparrows. Ruth Dauenheimer doubled and singled for the Buzzards.

Zena Outswims Ridgelawn

ZENA

The Zena Recreation Park swim team splashed to its second Kingston Area Swim League victory of the season with and overpowering 296-89 triumph over visiting Ridgelawn.

Ten pool records fell, three to Rex Herman who paced Zena with four individual wins in the eight-and-under category. Herman posted new marks in 25 backstroke, 25 butterfly and 25 breaststroke while teammate Annette Mason churned to new standards in 12-and-under 50 freestyle and 50 butterfly.

Fourteen-and-under Kirk Jacob set the pace in the 50 backstroke, and two other butterfly records were set by Jim Turnbull, 10-and-under, and Mark Woodward, 17-and-under. Zena also set three new relay records in sweeping all four team events.

Triple winners for Zena were Jennifer Rakov, Joy Herman and Kirk Jacob. Jim Turnbull, Mary Attenweiler, Mark Woodward and Steve Olson were double winners.

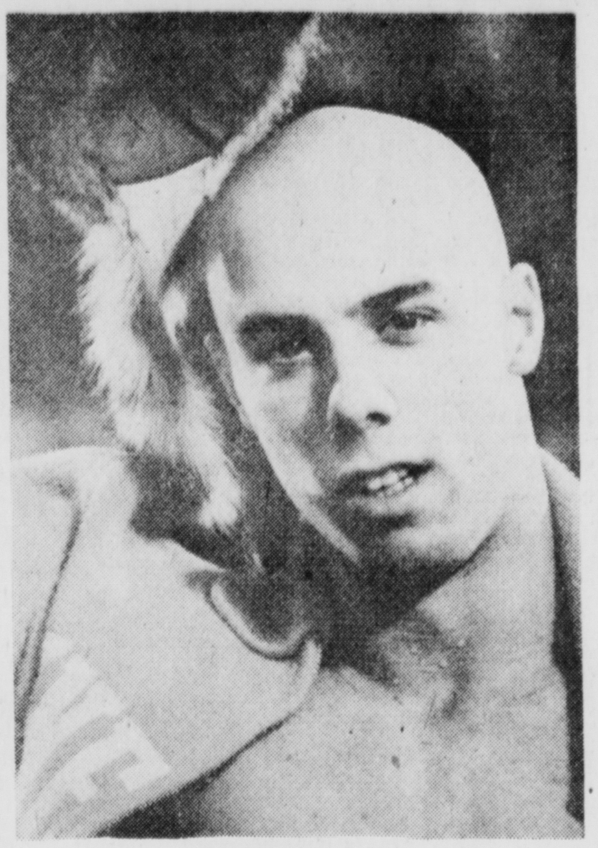

Zena will put its 2-0 league record on the line against Wiltwyck today.

JOHN TREMBLEY

John Trembley at NPS For Stone Dock Clinic

NEW PALTZ

The world's foremost 50 yard freestyle swimmer, Tennessee All-American John Trembley will be on hand when Stone Dock Swim Club of High Falls holds a swimming clinic Sunday at Elting Gym on the campus of the State University College at New Paltz.

The clinic is open to the public. It will begin at 10:30 a.m., break for lunch at noon, and continue with an afternoon session. Among the areas to be covered will be the grab start, sprint turn, sprint freestyle, butterfly, and psychology as it applies to competitive swimming.

Trembley, 21, a native of Loudenville, holds the world's record in the 50 yard freestyle with a clocking of 20.06 seconds. He started swimming at age eight, won his first race at nine, and still owns New York State high school records for the free and 100 yard butterfly.

The 1974 Tennessee grad climaxed his brilliant college career by winning three gold medals at this year's NCAA championships, after having won an unprecedented five at the 1973 event.

A philosophy major, Trembley will enter law school next year. He is currently writing a book about the mental aspects of swimming, which he feels are more important than the physical side of the sport.

Paul Perry Spearheads Pirates RVLL Victory

KYSERIKE

Paul Perry drove in six runs with a single, two doubles and a grand slam homer to back up his fine two-hit 15 strikeout pitching as the Pirates beat the Cubs, 15-1, in the first game of the Rondout Valley Little League playoffs.

Game two will be played tonight at Snyder Field.

Perry's brother Keith helped him out with three singles and Jim Salvatore and Joe Whitmore had two apiece.

Dan Loughlin's sixth inning homer spoiled Perry's shutout bid.

Hudson Cops Houston Open

HOUSTON (AP) — In his 2½ years on the pro bowling tour, Tommy Hudson had snapped up rookie-of-the-year honors but had yet to win a tournament.

Tuesday the 26-year-old Akron, Ohio, bowler remedied that, defeating Bill Beach in the final frame to win the $47,000 Houston-Sertoma Open.

Hudson finished his 10 frames with a 203 count, then watched as Beach, 44, of Sharon, Pa., failed to record a double in the 10th frame that would have sent the match into overtime.

At Griffiss AAA Meet

Stone Dock Swimmers Fourth

ROME

The Stone Dock Swim Team placed fourth in the Third Annual Griffiss Air Force Base AAU Championship Swimming Meet held here over the weekend. Stone Dock raced against more than 40 of the finest swim clubs in New York State.

The individual standout for Stone Dock was Mary Beth Pechloff who was the Individual High Point runnerup in the Girls 13-14 category. She stroked to a victory in the 100 meter backstroke, was second in the 100 butterfly, third in the 200 individual medley and the 200 freestyle, fourth in the 100 freestyle and sixth in the 100 breaststroke.

Mike Wood also turned a top performance for the locals. As the second runnerup for boys eight-and-under Individual High Point, Wood had a second place in the 25 meter backstroke, a third in the 25 butterfly, fifths in the 25 breaststroke and the 50 breaststroke and a seventh place in the 25 meter freestyle.

The only other first place by Stone Dock came in the girls 13-14 200 meter freestyle relay where the winning time was 2:06. Taking second places were the girls 13-14 400 meter medley relay team, Ann St. Denis in the girls senior 100 meter backstroke and Donna Durkin in the girls 11-12 50 meter freestyle.

Durkin also brought home three third places. She scored in the 200 meter freestyle, the 200 meter individual medley and the 50 meter backstroke. St. Denis took a third in the 400 individual medley while teammate Paul Hansen grabbed thirds in the senior boys 400 individual medley and 400 freestyle.

Also with third places were the Stone Dock girls 10-and-under 200 meter medley relay team and the boys 11-12 200 meter freestyle relay team.

More than 600 swimmers participated in the meet with over 3,000 entries in the individual races.

Arnie, Weiskopf Top Field

PORT CREDIT, Ont. (AP) — Arnold Palmer returns to the scene of his first victory—now almost 20 years back—and Tom Weiskopf returns to the site of his last triumph, in this week's $200,000 Canadian Open Golf Tournament.

Palmer and Weiskopf head a strong field of 150—almost all of them tour-toughened American stars—arrayed for the Thursday start in this national championship that offers the winner $40,000 and a spot in the four-man field for the World Series of Golf.

Only a handful of the name players are missing as the tour moves into its most lucrative portion of the schedule.

In the next eight weeks, more than $1.8 million in prize money will be at stake, and the big guns of the game, many of whom haven't played in the United States since the American Open, are moving back into action for a shot at the big money events.

The field also includes Jack Nicklaus, Lee Trevino, Johnny Miller, five of the year's top 10 money-winners and a dozen players who have won American tour titles this year.

The major absentees are Masters and British Open champion Gary Player, at home in South Africa, U.S. Open champion Hale Irwin, veteran Billy Casper, Hubert Green, Jerry Heard and Buddy Allin.

Miller, the season's top winner with $204,000 in prize money and five titles, remains a questionable starter on the eve of the 72-hole event. His wife is expecting their third child momentarily.

The 44-year-old Palmer scored the first of his 61 North American victories in the Canadian Open in 1955. Although he hasn't won in almost two years, he played some of his best golf of the period in his last three starts.

Weiskopf is the defending champion. This was the last of his official tour titles in 1973.

Other standouts include 1974 winners Jim Colbert, Rod Curl, Bob Menne, Allen Miller, Bobby Nichols, Leonard Thompson, Tom Watson and Richie Karl, winner of last week's B.C. Open.

Others include Australian Bruce Crampton, rookie Ben Crenshaw, John Mahaffey, Lanny Wadkins, Forrest Fezler, 62-year-old Sam Snead and Canada's best player, George Knudson.

The site is the 6,788-yard, par-70 Mississaugua Golf and Country Club course in suburban Toronto.

Harness Writers to Honor Harner

MONTICELLO

Levi Harner — one of harness racing's grand masters and winner of over 2300 career races — will be the guest of honor when the Monticello-Goshen Chapter of the United States Harness Writers Association holds its 16th annual awards banquet on Sunday, September 8 at the Stardust Room of Kutsher's County Club.

The largest affair of its type in the nation, almost 900 people attended the banquet in 1973 and USHWA is confident that this year's affair will be a sellout again.

The festivities will begin with a cocktail party at 7:00 p.m., followed by a full course dinner at 8:30. After the awards and drawing for door prizes there will be a Broadway show in the Stardust Room.

Highlight of the affair is the annual award presentation to the Monticello Raceway horsemen for the best horses of each age division. Last year's winners were Lullwater Song (trot), Popping Thru and Laker (pacers) among the two year olds; Gerhard Vee (trot), and Tara Row Gil (pacer), three year olds; Bob Collins, aged trotter; and Command Performer N, aged pacer.

A special achievement award went to Adioo Bob for recording the first sub-two minute victory at the track in four years when he scored in 1:59.4, and to Wico Dares for being the most improved horse on the grounds.

Clint Hodgins was last year's guest of honor as the newest member — at that time — of the Living Hall of Fame. Special awards went to Catello Manzi for reining six winners in one night and to Ralph Baldwin for his victory with the Arden Homestead Stables Flirth in the $144,000 Hambletonian Stake.

Monticello Raceway President, Leon Greenberg, received the Chic Feldman Humanitarian Award.

In addition, Jim Grundy took the presentation as the leading dash. winner of 1973, while Eldon Harner was top percentage driver.

Tickets for the banquet are $15.00 per person, and may be obtained from any chapter member of from Allen J. Finkelson at Monticello Raceway.

Children's Day Set Tuesday at Monticello

MONTICELLO

Monticello Raceway's fourth annual "Children's Day at the Races" will begin at 10 a.m. Tuesday, as the Sullivan County oval swings open its doors to welcome children and parents for a morning of instruction and racing.

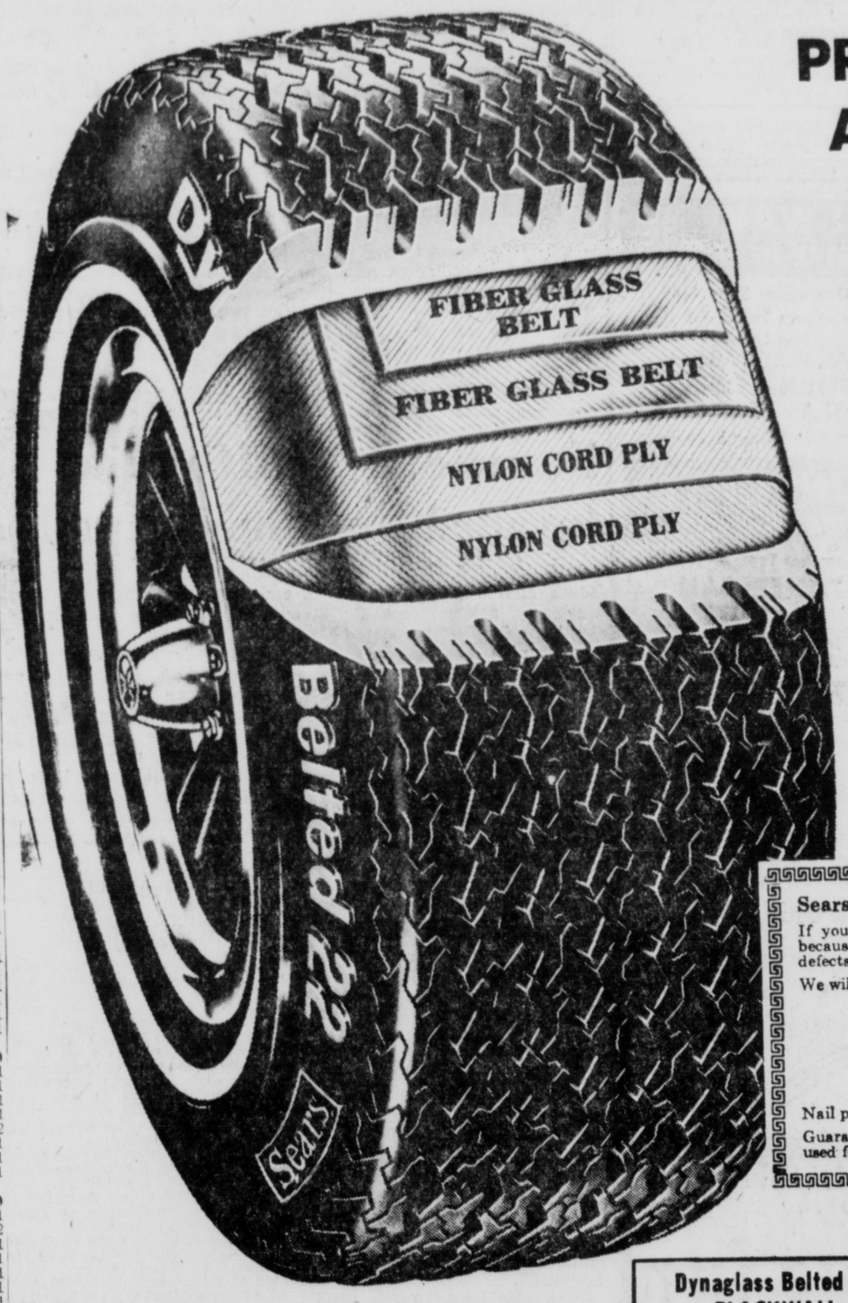

The program will commence with a special flag raising ceremony conducted by an honor guard made up of campers from local summer camps. Ricky Kurtz, one of the top driver-trainers at the Mighty M, will then conduct a clinic in the basics of getting a horse to the races. He will have a horse in the winner's circle and show how he is harnessed and raced. Kurtz will also hold a short question and answer period.

A full program of qualifying races will start at 10:30 a.m., with both pacers and trotters in action. The drivers will wear their regular colors and amateur track announcers will take turns calling each race.

Error Blamed for Hijack Report

NEW YORK (UPI) — An Argentine Airlines jetliner, which reported it had been hijacked over the Atlantic with 80 persons aboard, landed without incident today at Kennedy Airport where authorities said there had been no hijacking.

They said a mechanical error was responsible for the false report.

The plane, Aerolineas Argentinas flight 340 from Rio de Janiero, was surrounded by police and FBI agents when it landed at 9:27 a.m. — two minutes behind schedule.

It taxied to an isolated area where FBI agents and police went on board. They found nothing amiss, said there had been no hijacking, and the plane proceeded to the International Arrivals Building.

Earlier, the Federal Aviation Administration reported receiving a radio message from the flight at about 8:40 a.m. indicating a "hijacking in progress." Officials later said the message was "in error."

The flight carried 67 passengers and a crew of 13, according to the FAA.

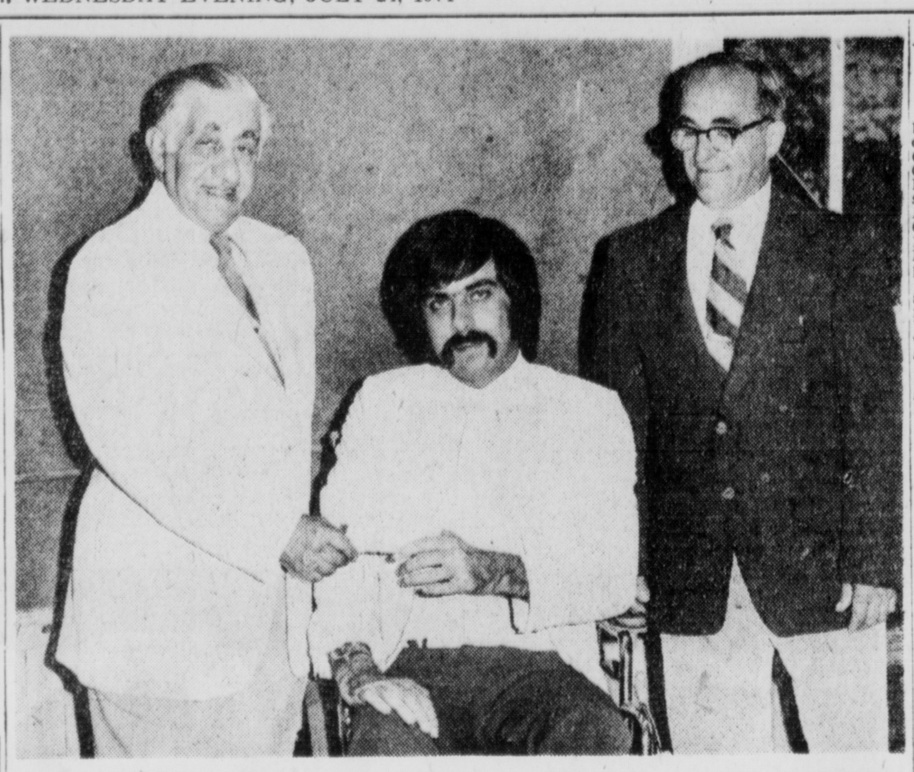

Blast Damages French Mission

WASHINGTON (AP) — An explosion Tuesday night damaged an office building housing part of the French military mission to the United States, the District of Columbia fire department reported.

Fire officials said there were no reports of injuries.

The building near the Embassy Row section of Washington was not seriously damaged, according to early reports.

Fire department investigators said it was not immediately clear what caused the explosion.

NEW YORK TELEPHONE COMPANY

State, Chrysler, Penn. Man Named in $15 Million Suit

GOUVERNEUR, N.Y. (AP) — The state of New York, the Chrysler Corp. and a Pennsylvania man have been sued for a total of $15 million in the aftermath of an auto accident that claimed six lives.

Suits of $5 million were filed against each the state, the auto company and one of the drivers in the accident, said a spokesman for Robert J. Leader, an attorney initiating the suits.

The accident occurred last Sept. 7 in Jefferson County at the intersection of N.Y. 11 and a county road. A car driven by Gary Brown, 31, of Edwards, collided with a vehicle driven by Earl J. Kauffman of Lewiston, Pa.

After the impact, the Brown car burst into flames and was quickly consumed by fire. Killed were Brown; his wife, Elsie; two of their children, Patrick, 1, and Melissa, 2; Mrs. Brown's grandmother, Ercile Griffith of Gouverneur; and a passenger in the Kauffman car, Roman F. Budzinski of Lexington, Ky.

Authorities said the Browns died of asphyxiation and burns. Four other of the couple's children escaped the blazing car.

The suits were filed on behalf of the Brown family and Mrs. Griffith.

In the suit against Chrysler, it was alleged that an anti-pollution device on the Brown car caused the fire.

The suit against New York State claimed possible negligence in the placement of a road sign, which allegedly obstructed Brown's visibility.

The suit against Kauffman alleged that he ran a stop sign at the intersection. Kauffman was assigned to nearby Camp Drum at the time of the accident.

Kauffman was charged with manslaughter second-degree, but was convicted early this year on a charge of criminally negligent homicide. Kauffman, who suffered extreme head injuries in the accident, was sentenced to five years probation.

Southern California Invaded by Jumbo Squid

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Thousands of jumbo squid are washing ashore along the Southern California coast, chasing grunion and at least one frightened little girl.

"There are many thousands of them out there," John Fitch, research director of the State Fisheries Laboratory in Long Beach, said Tuesday.

The octopus-like creatures, usually found in the waters off Chile and Peru, have washed ashore from Oceanside to Point Dume, he said, a stretch of coastline 100 miles long, north and south of Los Angeles.

"Most of them are about 2 feet long and 2 to 3 pounds," he said, but the species is "known to get to 12 feet in length and can weigh 100 to 200 pounds."

John Olguin, director of the Cabrillo Museum In San Pedro, said a little girl ran from the water there in fright, with a small squid wrapped around her leg.

"It didn't bite her, and she was just scared," he said. The squid have long tentacles and small beaks, like a bird's, which they use to catch and eat their prey.

Fitch said he examined some of the squid "and they had grunion in their stomachs, so it's possible they chased after the grunion and stranded themselves on shore."

Grunion are small silvery fish that swim ashore to spawn on nights of full moon.

Fitch said the squid last appeared off the coast in 1934, and on that occasion they stayed for three years, with specimens weighing up to 30 pounds washing ashore.

Already, he said, "the net fishermen are plagued by them, and many fishermen have quit fishing because the squid get tangled in their nets."

Squid are edible, and in Italy, Latin America and the Orient, they are caught in large numbers and prepared in many ways.

Public Session For Gardiner

GARDINER — The Town Board of the Town of Gardiner will hold a public hearing on the New York State Building Code 8 p.m. Thursday, July 25 at the Gardiner Firehouse.

The board is considering adoption of this code and wants to hear reactions of Gardiner residents.

Thomas Trainer of the Division of Housing and Community Renewal will be present to discuss the code and its applicability of the Town of Gardiner.

All interested persons may attend.

Youth Killed In Accident

MONTICELLO, N.Y. (AP) — An 18-year-old Brooklyn youth died Tuesday of injuries received in an auto accident Monday night.

Jeffrey Blum was a passenger in a car that skidded out of control and struck a tree, authorities said. The accident occurred in South Fallsburg.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) In your dealings, you'll be confronted by one who has more authority or a stronger position than you. Tactfully back off.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) It may prove wiser in the long run to call in experts to perform a service for you rather than trying to do it yourself.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't buck the odds at this time. If someting you're involved in has a poor chance of winning drop it.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You are likely to open your purse a bit too wide and let most of your household budget escape in one big burst. If you do, you'll regret it.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If you're a little too headstrong and unyielding, you'll be hurting yourself more than anyone else. Loosen up a bit.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't buy anything sight unseen. If you're making a major purchase, examine the merchandise in person.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-oct. 23) This is not your day for club or organizational activities. Someone in the group is apt to rub you the wrong way.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) A clever maneuver you have devised to further your aims will backfire if you put it to the test. Keep everything out in the open.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Don't try to sell others on an idea you've heard about. It may not work and could cause complications.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) In your business dealings, it would be foolish to let your guard down. An unexpected condition will suddenly give your competitior the upper hand.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) A few ill-chosen words may be all it takes to alienate an ally worth having. Be considerate of companions.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be extra careful today if working with electrical tools or new gadgets that you're not familiar with.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

MOTHER IS 56: (Q.) Ted is 17 and he and I have been going out for six months. I love him and he wants me to go steady. My mother does not know about him: I cannot talk to her because she is 56. My father is worse—64.

Please send me some advice.—15 in Pennsylvania.

(A.) Your parents are not too old to talk to. Because of their age they may be more understanding than parents in their 30s or 40s.

Talk first with your mother about Ted, and ask her to help you talk with your father.

Break your habit of not talking to your parents. Talk to them even when you don't have problems. Make it a family habit. Then when you have a problem you need help with, talking to them will be easy.

SPECTATOR: (Q.) My two best friends are breaking up. I feel it's my fault and I want to get them back together again. What should I do?—Concerned in Kentucky.

(A.) I can't tell exactly what you did to break them up—maybe nothing.

In any event, patching OTHER people's problems is seldom successful.

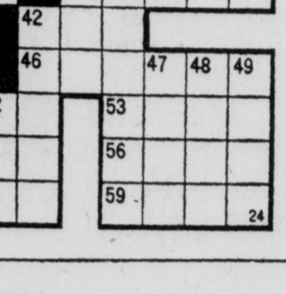

Let them work out their own solution.

And if you did contribute to the breakup, stay out of their hair in the future.

(Write to Jean Adams, care of The Daily Freeman, P.O. Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001. Every letter is read, but because of the great number received Jean Adams cannot send personal answers.)

Opening lead—10♦

If you can keep your eyes off the East and West cards you will see that you are in the same spade game as yesterday with exactly the same cards and opening lead.

There is one great difference. You are playing in the World's championship against Belladonna and Garrozzo of Italy, the best pair in the world.

You win the diamond lead, draw trumps, strip the hand of hearts, just as declarer did yesterday and throw Garrozzo in with a diamond.

He takes is two diamond tricks just as East did yesterday and shifts to the six of clubs.

Against a good player you would play low and make your contract if he has made the mistake of leading the six from 10-8-6 and jack-8-6. Against Garrozzo this just hasn't happened. He would be sure to lead the eight from either of those holdings.

Then what has he led from? He is Garrozzo, but you are playing in the World's championship also and you see that he must have led from jack-ten-six. You play your nine and make the contract.

Why didn't Garrozzo lead the 10? Because he was sure that you would recognize that false-card lead play low and finesse against his jack on the next turn. Suppose his lead was top of nothing? In that case you were a dead bird in any case.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

During the Whiskey Rebellion, western Pennsylvania farmers protested the "discriminatory" whiskey tax of 1791. The "rebellion" was suppressed by some 15,000 militiamen in September, 1794. Alexander Hamilton used the incident to establish the authority of the new federal government in enforcing its laws, The World Almanac notes.

Israelis Attack Suspected Guerrilla Bases

By United Press International

Israel has launched air strikes against suspected Palestinian guerrilla bases in southern Lebanon for the first time in more than a month, striking the outskirts of villages six miles north of the Israeli-Lebanese border.

Arab newsmen said four Israeli warplanes struck the outskirts of the villages of Khreibe and Rachaya el-Fakhar in a 10-minute attack Tuesday that damaged crops but apparently caused no casualties, according to report in Beirut.

An Israeli military spokesman in Tel Aviv said the attacks lasted only a few minutes, but gave no details.

The raid on targets in the Lebanese region known as Fatahland was the first bombing run since Israeli warplanes struck near the cities of Sidon and Tyre on June 20, causing dozens of casualties in Palestinian refugee camps.

Since then, the Israelis had restricted their antiguerrilla operations across the border to the destruction of about 30 fishing boats in three southern Lebanon ports July 8 and the demolition of three houses in the border village of Bustan last week.

Palestinian gurerrilla attacks on settlements in northern Israel have killed 53 Israelis since last October's Middle East war.

In Cairo, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat said Tuesday that King Hussein of Jordan has agreed privately that Palestinians living on the West bank of the Jordan River should be represented at peace talks by the Palestine Liberation Organization.

Last week Hussein and Sadat issued a joint communique saying the overall guerrilla organization represented all Palestinians except those in Jordan.

"The Jordanian government has given up all forms of objection and accepted our point of view that it only has temporary trust over the West Bank as we had trust over Gaza," Sadat said in his speech marking the 22nd anniversary of King Farouk's overthrow.

Non-Indians Out, Reservation Peaceful

NEDROW, N.Y. (AP)—The Onondaga Indian Reservation was reported peaceful today after tribal members evicted the last of the non-Indians from the land.

About 40 Indians roamed the 25 - square - mile reservation south of Syracuse Tuesday night, carrying out a tribal order to evict all non-Indians from the reservation.

The order was handed down by tribal elders who said the reservation was too small to accomodate non-Indians, including those married to Indians.

The Indians carried out the eviction order by surrounding homes occupied by non-Indians and threatening them, according to Onondaga County deputy sheriffs.

Some scattered violence was reported, but no one was seriously injured in the incidents.

Leon Shenandoah, chief of the six nation confederacy, said some of the Indians broke into dwellings when their knocks went unanswered. But he denied reports of violence.

"There were no fights. There may have been a few words back and fourth," the Indian chief said.

Onondaga County Dist. Atty. Jon Holcombe said the non-Indians had a legal right to remain on the reservation. Local American Civil Liberties Union officials offered their services to the evicted non-Indians who said they would take the matter to court.

Riot equipped deputies and State Police patrolled the reservation, but no arrests were made. Onondaga County Sheriff John Corbett was reported to taking a low profile approach to the situation.

"We are here to protect lives and property," Corbett said in outlining what he called a neutral law enforcement policy.

Last week, the federal government rejected a request from the Indians to carry out the eviction. Officials in Washington told the Indians the issue was a state matter. A mediator from the Justice Department was on the scene today.

Chief Shenandoah told local and state officials that the Indians did not recognize their legal jurisdiction or agree with their interpretation of the law in the matter.

The Onondaga Council of Chiefs had originally ordered the 39-non-Indians living on the reservation to move by March 16. That deadline was extended to June 30 after about half of the non-Indians left.

George Dimile, 63, a resident of the reservation for 30 years, was one of the non-Indians evicted Tuesday night after initialy resisting the order.

"I'll get out. I don't want any more," he said before leaving. Dimile left his Indian wife, his son and four grandchildren at the reservation.

MILLING—Onondaga Indians mill around the entrance of their reservation south of Syracuse. The group gathered after hearing rumors that sheriff's deputies were not allowing Indians on to the reservation. The Onondaga tribe is in the process of evicting all whites from their property. There were small disturbances at the gathering but no one was seriously injured. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Killer Drought Hits Plains States

By United Press International

Farmers and ranchers eyed their parched crops and livestock with growing concern today as hot, dry weather left the Plains on the verge of a killer drought.

Nebraska Gov. J.J. Exon predicted that the drought and depressed livestock prices could cost the state's agricultural industry a minimum of $1 billion this year.

"At least 50 per cent of Nebraska's dry agricultural cropland has been lost; and on the irrigated land, farmers can expect a bushel decline of 30 per cent from last year," Exon said Tuesday.

The state's rich livestock feeding western range also was hard hit.

"There are more cattle on ranges than in the past, but the pastureland has been drying up," Exon said.

"We definitely are going to request some kind of drought emergency aid. This situation is posing a very dismal effect on the farmers and ranchers as well as on the state as a whole," he said.

Dr. M.D. Mitchell, South Dakota state veterinarian, Tuesday confirmed the year's first outbreak of anthrax but said it was not considered unusual in view of the hot, dry weather. In such weather Mitchell said, the cattle feed on grass roots and pick up the disease from spores.

Portions of central Kansas reported slight rainfalls Tuesday but the trend of dry weather continued across the state and into western Missouri with little change in sight. The area has had only one measurable rainfall since June 12.

Farmers watched their crops with growing anxiety. Authorities noted that some areas of Kansas could lose 20 per cent of their corn and sorghum crops due to wilting plants.

Lawrence, Kan., residents were urged to curtail lawn sprinkling and car washing because such activities could jeopardize fire protection.

Vows to Keep Center Open

SOUTHERN PINES, N. C. (UPI) — Declaring he is ready "to go to jail," the director of a center for emotionally-disturbed children vowed Tuesday to fight efforts to close the center in a wealthy neighborhood.

Some of the children wept when the director told them he could be jailed for resisting eviction.

"I plan to go to jail and I'll get out on bond and continue to operate the center," said Cecil Brown, director of Duncraig Manor, which houses seven children ages 8 to 16.

The town council has been trying to evict the children from the center, which is located on a plush 17-acre private estate surrounded by mansions and wealthy families.

Mrs. Constance Baker, owner of the estate, has filed suit in federal court asking that a temporary restraining order be issued against the town council.

"It's hard to conceive that people could be so mean," said Mrs. Baker. "It doesn't make sense. I guess you would label it insane. I'm not letting any of those kids go to an institution."

Brown told the children he could be arrested at any time but they will remain at the center under care of the staff. Many of the youngsters cried when Brown said he might have to go to jail for disobeying the eviction notice.

Beagle Amendment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — At first glance, members of the House and Senate armed services committees voted Tuesday to prevent the armed forces from killing beagles in research. But they included a loophole allowing the services to continue using the dogs just as they have in the past.

The legislators finished ironing out differences in two versions of a defense weapons bill approved by the House and Senate.

They announced that they had agreed on a beagle amendment proposed by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., and approved by the Senate but not the House, that "would prohibit research with poison gases and other chemicals on dogs for weapons research."

But the members said they "redrafted" Humphrey's language so "the provision is not to inhibit research aimed at preserving human life."

The Army and the Air Force —the two services that buy about 800 beagles a year for research —have long said they do not use the dogs to test nerve gas, as is frequently charged.

The Air Force says it uses the animals to test the effect of fumes from jet fuels and burning aircraft to see how little or how much is harmful to humans.

The Army has said it will test the residues left after nerve gas supplies are destroyed to see if they are dangerous to people. It will also seek antidotes for nerve gasses.
